City, schools hold auction

The City of Romulus, in conjunction with the Romulus schools, will hold an auction at 10 a.m., Sat., Oct. 9 at the Old DPW Department Building, corner of Bibbins and Shook.

A wide range of equipment and items will go on the auction block, including school buses, dump trucks, bicycles, typewriters, calculators and other office equipment.

For further information, please contact Pat Hogan at City Hall (941-0666).

Cheese giveaway set for Oct. 6

The great cheese giveaway is on again in Romulus. Eligible recipients are urged to show up at the T. J. Coleman Building, 35351 Beverly, with the necessary documentation to receive the free 5-pound block of cheese.

The cheese will be available from noon until 4 p.m., Wed., Oct. 6, according to city officials.

St. Stephens rummage slated

St. Stephens Church in New Boston will hold its fall rummage sale between the hours of 9 a.m. until 5 p.m., Friday and Saturday.

Items are priced at $1, and the church is located on Huron River Drive.

Switch in Huron Homecoming

There's been a switch in New Boston Huron High School's "Homecoming Game". The game, originally scheduled for October 8, has been changed to Oct. 22 at 7:30 p.m. and the Homecoming Dance is slated for Oct. 23.

The switch was necessitated because the original date conflicts with Huron's Applefest activities.

This year's Homecoming theme is "Video Fever".

Class of 1947 plans reunion

The Belleville High School Class of 1947 is planning its 35th year class reunion on Oct. 9. All 1947 graduates are urged to telephone 699-7193 or 697-9492 for information, if they haven't already done so.

Romulus to build Post Office

Ford says facility to be completed in 1983

CONG. WILLIAM B. FORD

Your letters and parcels may soon have a Romulus post mark.

In a special afternoon City Council session on Monday, the council, Mayor William Oakley, city officials, businessmen and residents heard the good news during a press conference called by Congressman William Ford of Romulus.

Congressman Ford announced that a badly needed new post office building will be constructed in Romulus culminating a long effort by Ford, who is Chairman of the House Post Office and Civil Service Committee, and the Mayor and the City Council.

"This is truly a case where we all worked together to fulfill a long overdue public need," said Ford. "It is a demonstration of progress through the cooperation of elected officials at different levels, along with the Romulus Central Business District Association."

Ford said that existing facilities in Romulus have long been a matter of public concern because of inadequate customer off-street parking and other shortcomings. The U.S. Postal Service will begin completed during the summer of 1983.

"I am gratified that the Postal Service has recognized the need for a new facility in Romulus."

Ford said in making the announcement to the Romulus City Council this afternoon: "I am gratified that the Postal Service has recognized the need for a new facility in Romulus. I am confident that the new building will meet the needs of the residents of this area and solve the long-standing problems with the existing facility that have been brought to my attention by the Mayor, the members of the City Council, the business community and individual citizens."

The announcement culminated nearly four years of extensive work by residents and city officials who launched a petition drive for the Post Office Building.

With a population hovering around the 27,000 mark, Romulus doesn't have its own postal facility and must rely on the postal service branch in neighboring Taylor.

"It shows what people working together can accomplish," said Mayor Oakley. "About four years ago we launched a petition drive for the post office and our citizens worked hard to get those signatures on these petitions."

"And I want to thank each and every one of those who circulated and signed those petitions because the bottom line is that they were the ones who made this a reality," Oakley said. "Obviously, we're happy that we have a man like Cong. Ford in Washington who looks after the needs of his constituents."

Councilman Jimmie Raspberry, who also spearheaded the drive for the Post Office, said he was "elated that the city finally will get the recognition it truly deserves."

PCHA rebate? Don't count on it, folks

A PCHA rebate? Don't count on it. In fact, the recent furor over whether the Peoples Community Hospital Authority should refund part of its now controversial $22 million reserve monies remains as controversial as ever.

Some officials and newspaper people have cited an Attorney General's opinion which, they say, clears the way for the hospital authority to return some of the monies to the hard-hit depressed areas.

"However," said Mayor Patrick Norton of Wayne, "the Attorney General's opinion doesn't even address itself to a refund, but to the 4 mills that the PCHA levies by law."

"I do not know how the people can be so confused and I will challenge anyone to find anything in the Attorney General's opinion about refunding the money," he added.

Although many city officials have their sights on the controversial $22 million Peoples Community Hospital Authority's reserve fund, none of them plan on spending their share in the near future.

The confusion apparently occurred when three municipal officials whose cities are members of the PCHA had urged for a resolution to return the reserve fund to the cities.

The three — Dearborn Heights Mayor Donald Bishop, Flat Rock Mayor Ted Anders and Trenton City Councilman William Muddman — had requested a meeting with PCHA officials earlier this month to discuss a rebate of all or part of the PCHA's approximately $22 million in reserve funds.

No action has been taken on the rebate.

In the meantime, State Representative Thomas J. Anderson had asked the Attorney General for an opinion on the PCHA levy, 0.4 mill established by state law in 1945 to help finance the hospital authority.

The question, as put to the Attorney General, is as follows: "Is the PCHA required to certify the 4/10 mill levy yearly to the member municipalities as long as the hospital monies are outstanding?"

In his five-page response, Attorney General Frank J. Kelley, replied that: "It is my opinion that the PCHA is required by the 1945 PA 47, paragraph 8, and the ordinance, to certify the 4/10 mill levy yearly to the members municipalities as long as the debt service on the bonds is equal to or greater than the estimated proceeds of the levy or unless the debt service reserve contains a sum sufficient to meet the maximum debt service on the bonds to become due in any two future fiscal years, in which event the levy may be reduced or eliminated as further provided in the ordinance."

Part of the current plan calls for 258 layoffs over a 20-month period, but the MFC wants the deficit eliminated in just 14 months, not later than end of the next fiscal year, Nov. 30, 1983.

It's Huron Applefest time

Drumming up support for their "Applefest", scheduled to begin on October 9, New Boston Huron residents have come up with some unique promotions including huge cardboard apples. Displaying them are Sue Davies (from left, front row) and Aaron Andring; second row are Marguerite Davies, Hope Andring, Nora Adkins, Bev Kummerfelt, Jim Fullerton, Cookie Kowalski and Edwin Davies; in the third row are Pete Glaab, chairman of the Applefest, Rick Antosik, Candi Youtsey, Rich Antosik and Rose Bates and Linda Dyer.

Huron readies for gala fete

This is the final week for those who wish to sign up to compete in a wide range of contests and events offered during the third annual Huron Township Applefest.

More than 20,000 persons are expected to flock to the township during the three-day affair, which has developed into one of the largest of its kind in the state.

Among the activities still open to competitors are: the 10 kilometer and one mile runs, canoe races down the Huron River, tractor pull, and tug-of-wars. There will also be a vast array of exhibits, arts and crafts and a parade complete with bands, clowns and exciting floats.

A committee has been formed to select the 1982 Huron Applefest Queen and her escort, Johnny Appleseed. The queen will be crowned on Fri., Oct. 8.

The candidates for Applefest Queen and Johnny Appleseed must be 16 years old or over and must reside in the township.

The 10 kilometer run and mile run will be held on Sun. Oct. 10, beginning at 9:30 a.m. The race will begin at the township Hall, Waltz and Huron River Drive and there is a registration fee.

Ribbons will be awarded to all finishers and medals will be presented to the first 100 finishers.

Also, trophies will go to the first man and woman and the first place finishers in each of the age groups.

The canoe race is also scheduled for Sun. Oct. 10 and there are eight age group and team categories canoeists may participate in. A $4 per person entry fee will be needed.

Those wishing to compete in any of the events should contact the Huron Township offices for further information.

County borrows $10 million

Wayne County has borrowed $10 million in a sale of tax anticipation notes authorized by the State Municipal Finance Commission (MFC) to provide for payroll and other expenditures until Dec. 1 when new revenue will be available.

The notes were sold last week to the National Bank of Detroit in a transaction which County Auditor Richard T. Kelly called "an expression of NBD's value to the community." With the lowest bid from among six offers, NBD bought the notes at a 9.7 percent interest rate for a cost to the County of about $352,000 for the four-month loan period specified by the MFC. When granting permission to borrow three weeks ago, the MFC designated the loan period from September through January next year, and allowed a maximum 18 percent interest rate.

"The willingness of NBD to buy our notes at this low cost shows that the business community has a lot of faith in the assets of the County and its ability to repay. They realize that, although we are short of cash, Wayne County has never defaulted or come close to bankruptcy," said Auditor Ted Mrozowski.

The County needed to borrow because of a projected $17.6 million deficit and a $2 million payroll each week, along with other financial obligations. Originally, the County asked for permission to borrow $20 million, but the MFC authorized only $10 million with the possibility for an additional $10 million contingent upon a revision of plans for eliminating the deficit.

In 'poor condition'

Mrs. Roberts taken out of intensive care

Doctors at Wayne County General Hospital said yesterday that Irene Roberts, wife of Van Buren Township supervisor candidate, George Roberts, is in "poor condition" at the hospital.

Mrs. Roberts and her daughter, Linda Curtis, were rushed to the hospital last Wednesday night after a vehicle struck the Roberts car head-on approximately 100 feet from the entrance to their mobile home in the Belleville Manor Park.

Mrs. Roberts sustained several broken ribs and lacerations of the face and body. Her daughter was treated and later released.

Mrs. Roberts had been in Intensive Care for two days before she was reported well enough to move from the unit.

Mrs. Roberts was traveling north on Belleville Rd., and was approaching the entrance of the mobile park when the second car collided with the victim's vehicle.

The driver of the second vehicle, Charles Lee Willis of Canton, was cited by Van Buren police for driving under the influence of alcoholic beverages and also for not having proper insurance.

A lasting tribute

Friends and relatives of the late Kathy Hogan recently gathered in San Francisco's General Hospital for the official unveiling of a coronary care unit dedicated posthumously in the name of the former Belleville nurse who was struck down by acute leukemia in 1969. Kathy's mother (second from right, above photo) and

San Francisco mayor Dianne Feinstein prepare to unveil the golden plaque upon which is encribed the name of Kathy Hogan. In the picture below, the plaque reveals the wording of the tribute: Coronary Care Unit - Dedicated in Memory of Kathy Hogan.

Township officials to attend workshops

Township officials from a four-county area will be convening at the Holiday Inn West Bank in Ann Arbor on October 5 to attend a series of workshops designed to help improve skills in various phases of township operations.

The all-day program is part of Michigan Townships Association's (MTA) District Tour, which puts resource people on the road to bring the association's educational seminars directly to its members.

In the general morning session an overview of current legislation affecting townships will take place.

During the afternoon, officials will choose one of the following seminars: Township Budgeting/Insurance, Elections Management, or Tax Collections. The State Assessors Board will also be on hand to give the state's assessor certification renewal course.

Resource people will be: Larry Merrill, MTA Education Director, John LaRose, MTA Deputy Executive Director, MTA Accounting Consultant Al Blankenship, Assessors Board Executive Secretary Barb Kiwala and Dave Peterson from the Secretary of State's Office.

The meeting begins at 9:00 a.m. Registration is $25 at the door. The Ann Arbor meeting is designed for officials from the counties of Wayne, Monroe, Washtenaw and Livingston.

Diabetics invited

Persons with Diabetes and their families can learn about the condition of Diabetes Mellitus, its control and treatment through the relationship of diet, exercise and medication in classes sponsored by the Wayne County Department of Health.

The next series of classes will begin Oct. 20 and will be from 7 to 9 p.m. in Room 200 at the Wayne County Health Center, Merriam Road, Westland, for five consecutive Wednesday evenings. The diet and self-management classes also stress cooperation with the physician, in order to lead an active life.

To register for the class call the Wayne County Department of Health at 274-2800, or 729-2211, ext. 258.

Posthumous tribute

San Francisco General Hospital honors Belleville nurse, Kathy Hogan

By STEVE O'LEARY
Special Writer

Kathy Hogan, a longtime resident and graduate of Belleville High School's class of 1969, died last year after an eight month battle with acute leukemia.

Last month, at San Francisco's General Hospital, where Kathy had worked as a nurse on the C.C.U. for five years, a ceremony was held to dedicate the coronary care unit to her memory. It was the first time that a ward or unit had been named in honor of a nurse.

"It was historic in a sense," says Delores Hogan, Kathy's mother and resident of Belleville, "because most times when there's a dedication in a hospital it's either to a doctor or to someone that donated a lot of money."

"But because Kathy had been so dedicated and, so I'm told, so good at her work, they felt it would be appropriate to honor her memory in this way."

"It was the nurses, actually everyone in the cardiac unit that pushed for it," Mrs. Hogan went on to say, "and of course to do something like that in a public building...well, there's a lot of red tape to go through. It took them quite a long time to get all the permissions and go-aheads they needed — it was almost ten months to the day from the time she died until the ceremony."

The ceremony was presided over by the Mayor of San Francisco, Dianne Feinstein, and was, in the words of Delores Hogan, "A beautiful thing to do."

"Let me tell you how she found out she had leukemia," Mrs. Hogan said. "She was at work when she was diagnosed. She had been skiing and had bruised herself, and one of the doctors checked on it, and found a lot more. They took a lab test that day and told her that afternoon at work. They took her to U.C. Medical Center and started working on her that night. So, one morning she went to work as usual, and by evening had been told she had one month to live."

Kathy was told that without chemotherapy treatment, she would live one month at most. With the treatment, her time would be doubled. In keeping with her own beliefs that terminally-ill patients have a right to die with dignity, Kathy declined chemotherapy and its side effects. "She had done a lot of research," says Mrs. Hogan,

"and had made her decision by the time she called and told us. She had been a nurse long enough to know, and I supported her decision. As it turned out, she lived quite a few months longer than they expected her to anyway."

Kathy, who was only 31 when she died, had become well-known at the hospital and respected as a skilled teacher, nurse activist and advocate of patients' rights. Yuhum Digidan, a close friend and the Head Nurse on the C.C.U., recalls that "Kathy enjoyed life until the end. She had only three wishes: to hear Elizabeth Kubler-Ross speak on death and dying, go skiing for the last time, and spend a lot of time with her family." Kathy was able to fulfill all three wishes.

Also, the Coronary Care Unit has established a special fund — the Kathleen Hogan Nurses' Education Fund — to further the professional growth of other nurses.

Headlee to speak October 14

Republican gubernatorial nominee Richard Headlee will be the guest speaker at the Legislative Breakfast Thurs., Oct. 14, sponsored by the Belleville-Van Buren Chamber of Commerce in cooperation with the West Suburban Area Council of Chambers. His topic will be "Prospects for Business."

The meeting will be held at the Holiday Inn — West, I-275 and 6 Mile Road, at 8:30 a.m. The cost is $8.00 per person.

Headlee is president of Alexander Hamilton Life Insurance Company of America in Farmington Hills.

Michigan Bell launches unique 'Let's Talk' series

Michigan Bell wants to talk to any of its three million customers who have questions about changes occurring in the telecommunications industry.

The company launched a statewide consumer information program, designed to answer such customer questions, according to Haze Wilson, Michigan Bell corporate affairs manager.

Called "Let's Talk," the program is part of a nationwide campaign to encourage "person-to-person dialog" with telephone customers, Wilson said.

"The day is coming when customers will be able to get local telephone service from Michigan Bell, but not long distance," he said. "And although that day may be more than a year away, we think it's important that consumers know how they will receive their total telephone service in the future."

"Through the 'Let's Talk' program, we hope to let customers know — as information becomes available — what changes to expect and how those changes will affect them."

The "Let's Talk" program will feature a nationwide toll-free number — 1-800-555-5000 — which customers can call for additional information.

In Michigan, the toll-free "Let's Talk" line will ring at a Customers Information Center in Troy established specifically to handle consumer inquiries. Specially-trained representatives will be available to answer questions from 8 a.m. to 11 p.m. weekdays and from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturdays. The center will be closed Sundays.

Many of the changes affecting the telecommunications industry are the result of federal regulatory rulings and the consent decree agreed to earlier this year by American Telephone & Telegraph Co. and the U.S. Justice Department.

According to provisions of the consent decree, AT&T will divest Michigan Bell and the 21 other Bell operating telephone companies about Jan. 1, 1984.

"With complex changes occurring so rapidly, we decided to take a public information approach to provide immediate, person-to-person communications," Wilson explained.

'Views On' Dental Health

By
KENNETH A. FOX, D.D.S.

ON HIDING PARTIAL CLASPS

The basic design of the removable partial is a framework of metal with metal clasps that grip the supporting teeth and hold the appliance in the mouth. There is generally acrylic over the ridge areas (the area of missing teeth) to support the replacement teeth.

Most of the esthetic problems with a removable partial have to do with the clasps or hooks that hold it in place. Patients feel that the illusion of naturalness is defeated by the hooks that immediately indicate "removable denture".

The simplest way of overcoming this is to alter the design of the partial. Retention and stability may still be obtained with smaller, thinner clasps. Clasps can be further hidden by placing them as far back on the tooth as possible. This is a very delicate procedure, however, because if the clasp is reduced too much, it loses its function. A partial that doesn't stay in the mouth is valueless, no matter how esthetic it is. However, dentistry has come a long way in combining function with pleasing appearance in the area of dentures.

New law aids area farmers

Beginning October 1, local and area cattlemen and farmers may register livestock brands with the Michigan Department of State.

According to Secretary of State Richard H. Austin, Public Act 52, approved by Governor Milliken in March of this year, permits individuals who own cattle, horses, hogs, sheep or goats to register brands with the Department of State.

Purpose of the law is to provide uniform identification for livestock. Fee for registering an original brand is $50.

Applications for registering brands will be available at the Michigan Department of State, Livestock Brand Registry, P.O. Box 303300, Lansing, 48909. The Registry telephone number is (517)322-1469.

Desperate search is on for new landfills

(Editor's Note: First of three articles concerning the desperate search for new landfills.)

With two of five landfill sites in Wayne County nearly filled and residential rubbish piling up at the rate of 35,000 cubic yards each day, enough to fill Tiger Stadium every two weeks, collection may grind to a halt in the near future unless new locations are found soon.

Public confusion over Michigan Public Acts 641 and 64 is interfering with attempts by local officials to find appropriate landfill acreage to dispose of rubbish normally picked up from residential areas.

Add to that confusion, licenses that have already been issued by the Michigan Department of Natural Resources (M-DNR) under previous Act 87 and a county Waste Management Plan that won't be completed until July, 1983 and you have a number of communities, landfill developers and public watchdogs heading for the solace of circuit court.

It's important to educate the public on the variances of these three Public Acts," Wayne County Commissioner Clarence R. Young,

Chairman of the county's Solid Waste Management Committee, pointed out, "or we'll have rubbish and garbage up to our armpits. The problems affect every resident in Wayne County."

Misunderstandings became obvious during a regular meeting of the 13-member Wayne County Solid Waste Management Committee, Wednesday in Wayne, when Canton Township spokesman James Kosteva insisted that Canton Recycling Center's proposed 47-acre landfill site at Lilley and Michigan Ave. conform to a local ordinance restricting height to 10 feet and when action on the Lyon Development Company's application for a Huron Township landfill was recessed because of its failure to submit proper papers to the Township's Zoning Board. Adding to the consternation was Dr. Charles E. Hunt's comments concerning a lawsuit in Sumpter Township to bar construction of another landfill by MJW, Inc. under provisions of PA 641. The audience began cheering him on thinking that he was referring to a hazardous waste site in the same community.

"In a nutshell," Young explained, "PA 87 was the original state ordinance enacted to control the licensing and disposal of solid waste and included a proviso that community ordinances would determine whether a landfill developer qualified for a license. PA 641, enacted in 1979 to replace PA 87, stipulates that a county solid waste management plan and its attendant ordinance supercedes any city or township ordinance. PA 64," Young continued, "deals solely with hazardous waste material. In every case, it is up to the M-DNR to issue licenses."

Committee members, Wednesday, agreed to include the Canton landfill project in the proposed county plan (thus opening the door for DNR approval) and allowing the Township and Canton Recycling time to compromise on the landfill's eventual height. Another Canton developer, however, Waste Management of Michigan, Inc. refuses to abide by the Canton Township ordinance and has taken the community to court challenging its right to limit the Woodland Meadows landfill site to 10 feet.

Canton Recycling, with an eye on the outcome of the court action, has prepared two alternate plans just in case.

Landfill developers, without exception, include plans to provide for future reuse of the property. "A classic case," said Young, "is the Riverview landfill which is now a recreational complex complete with a ski slope and golf course. That community has even prepared plans to extract methane gas to heat nearby city buildings," Young explained.

Canton Recycling has included a 100-foot isolation belt around its 47-acre site with 300 feet across the front for future use as industrial or commercial property. Kosteva, in addressing committee members, said landfill property returns about $750 per acre in tax revenues while in use and $2,400 when it's later developed for construction. Lyon Development, a subsidiary of BFI, has offered to turn its land over to Huron Township for a park after it's filled.

"Horror stories of poisoned water due to hazardous waste leakage has made the public gun-shy," Young said, "and now, at the mere mention of a landfill, residents come out shooting before they know the facts. This is hampering efforts to find places to deposit rubbish and garbage that these very same residents help to generate. It's important for them to understand that materials deposited in landfill sites under PA 641 contain no hazardous wastes and the property can be reused for recreational or industrial purposes. PA 641," Young said, "also provides for greater control over operations of sanitary landfills and should, in time, give Michigan residents the protection they are demanding not to mention the fact that it allows local officials to adequately dispose of the community's waste materials."

The Solid Waste Management Committee is composed of four members from industry, two environmental, one from Region 1, SEMCOG; one from cities, one from townships, one from the Wayne County Board of Commissioners, and three citizens at large. (NEXT WEEK: Goals of the Wayne County Solid Waste Management Committee plan and its members.)

Gas leak routs 300 residents in Canton

A construction accident routed more than 300 residents of West Point Manor Trailer Park in Canton Township from their homes Tuesday evening.

According to police reports of the incident, a construction firm presently installing a concrete sound wall barrier adjacent to the park, located near Michigan Avenue and I-275, struck a 6-inch pressurized gas line at 5:15 p.m. The break, which snapped the line in half, caused the natural gas to shoot more than 75-feet into the air "like an oil well," one observer noted. Canton police, notified by the contractor in charge of construction, immediately blocked off the area and closed down both Michigan Avenue and I-275 in an effort to minimize the danger of any ignition and subsequent explosion of the gas.

Canton police Chief Jerry Cox explained that during the first hours following the break, there was "a good probability of ignition." He noted that this danger was due primarily to the atmospheric conditions which held the expelling gas close to the ground and prevented any dissipation of the concentrated and highly volatile fume. "We didn't want engines running, people starting or stopping cars," Cox said. "The cloud cover was holding the gas down and there was a real danger during the first few hours."

"While the gas company said the evacuation might not be necessary, we felt that if there was any doubt, we should take the side of safety and we asked the residents to leave.

"We didn't force anyone out, although we didn't allow people to enter the area, nor did we allow them back in once out," he said.

Cox explained that the majority of residents affected by the danger walked or drove out in their own automobiles under supervision of officers and went to homes of friends or relatives. A few were housed in the Canton senior citizens building on Michigan Avenue.

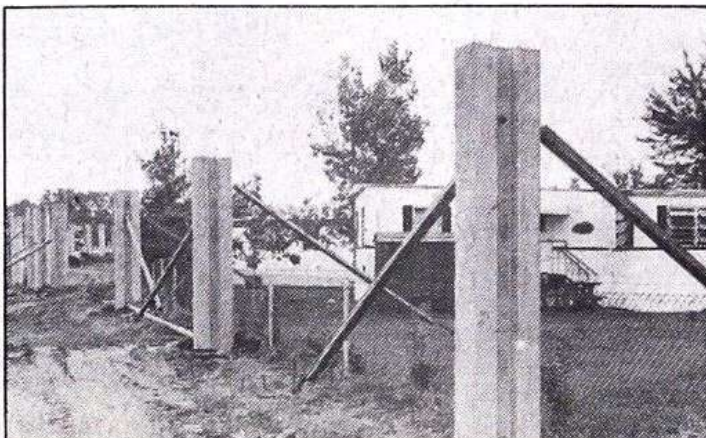

The area was blocked off by Canton police with the assistance several State Police units from the Northville post, officers from Romulus and Van Buren Township and Wayne County Sheriff's deputies.

"It was an emergency operation. We used all our flares, and borrowed another six to 10 cases from other departments," he noted.

Both Cox and Canton Fire Chief Melvin Paulin were on the scene or at emergency headquarters at Township Hall from the initial accident until the danger was finally cleared at 9 Wednesday morning.

"Most repairs were made and nearly all the expressway ramps and roads open by 6 a.m. Cox said, "but we were notified only at 9 that the final repairs, the lighting of furnaces and hot water heaters was underway."

first few hours of the emergency situation and that the Canton police evacuated nearly another 100 during the hours between 1 and 2 a.m. "Most drove out themselves but a few were moved on the recreation department bus. Naturally, they had a concern for getting back to their homes to prepare for work this morning. Most took what they need with them when they left," he added.

"Most people were reasonably understanding in the emergency," Cox said. "It was difficult as we had three people working round the clock just to man the phones. We opened our six emergency lines and the telephone lines at township hall, but I'm sure many people had to wait. With our phone system you don't get a busy signal, the calls are stacked, so that the caller only hears a ringing sound. I'm sure many people were frustrated," he added.

Letter to the Editor

Van Buren couple answers critics

EDITOR— We would like to respond to the letter signed Maxine Heifner, September 22, 1982.

PARAGRAPH 1. We have never made ridiculous accusations only statements of fact or our opinions. Our opinions have been written unashamedly and not spoken behind closed doors at cabal or clandestine meetings.

PARAGRAPH 3. We have never questioned Ms. Heifner's reasons for being active on the recall committee nor frankly do we care.

PARAGRAPH 4. Ms. Heifner, don't you think that the former Police Commander and his family have suffered enough from innuendos and allegations against him (verbal and written)? He has never been convicted of a crime and Ms. Heifner, remember the code of the United States, "An individual is innocent until proven guilty."

We only hope that neither she or any member of her family is ever arrested and "convicted by trial through the media".

When Ms. Heifner, questioned the Van Buren Township Board at the February 9, 1982 meeting re: the purchase of police cars members of the Board did not "absolutely refuse" to give an answer as she reported in her letter. The Board answered her but we assume it was not the answer she "hoped" for.

PARAGRAPH 5 & 6. Is Ms. Heifner implying that only individuals who are politically oriented and outspoken of local politics would be willing to run for office when asked? Who did the asking? Or did the entire Republican slate step forth and say by their actions "here I am I want you to name me".

PARAGRAPH 8 & 9. Ms. Heifner, three members of a nominating committee and 39 individuals present at a Republican Club meeting does not, in our opinion, constitute the Republican Party.

We are totally opposed to the selection of any party candidates (Republican, Democratic, Socialist, Communist, American Independent, etc.) by a small hand picked group of individuals. We believe that the selection of the candidates for elective Township office should have been by a Primary election, and not by the selection choice outlined in Sec. 973 of the Recall Chapter, State of Michigan Election Law.

PARAGRAPH 10. Yes Ms. Heifner, there are numerous reasons why a voter picks one candidate over another re: Headlee vs. Brickley, etc.

Scouting Around Belleville

Troop Service director named

Mrs. Linda Wickham is the new Troop Services Director (T.S.D.) for the Tyler Girl Scout Cluster. In the past, Linda has served as a Junior Leader for four years and was the Assistant Leader of Junior Troop 487 for one year. Her daughter, Laurie, is a Cadette Girl Scout and also serves as an Assistant Leader for a Brownie.

Linda's main duties as a T.S.D. includes recruiting adult volunteers, placing girls in Troops, and supervising the troops in her cluster.

When asked about her feelings about this new position Linda said: "I am learning so many fascinating things as each day goes by, that I know this job will be an exciting challenge for me."

Mrs. Clevea Luebke is the new T.S.D. for Quirk Girl Scout Cluster. A very active community volunteer, Mrs. Luebke is not a new-comer to Girl Scouting. As a 12 year Girl Scouting veteran, she has served as a Brownie Assistant Leader; a Junior Leader; Cadette Assistant Leader; T.S.D. for Tyler School Cluster; Day Camp Counselor; Nominating Chairperson; Area Encampment Co-ordinator and as a Delegate to Huron Valley Council's Annual meeting.

Along with her husband, Ed, she is active in school activities, Little League, and the American Red Cross.

About her new position at Quirk School, Clevea had this to say, "I feel very confident that my previous Girl Scouting experience will enable me to bring a successful and fulfilling Girl Scout program to Quirk School."

This past summer, Junior Troop 589 of Elwell Cluster Girl Scouts travelled to the Six Nations Indian Reservation near Brantford, Ontario.

Twenty-four girls and eight adults pitched tents and camped along the Grand River on the Reserve, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Maracle. The Maracles are the grandparents of the Troop's leader, Judi Fender.

During their four-day visit, the Troop got together with a company of Girl Guiders from Brantford for a campfire dinner and sing-a-long. They enjoyed breakfast on the Grand River Belle and a day at the Big Creek Boat Farm. Despite the rainy weather for their all-day tour of Niagara Falls their spirits were not dampened. Everyone had a great time.

Along with learning more about the Indian culture, Mr. Maracle also taught the girls a few words in the Indian language.

The week-end visit coincided with the Maracle's 53rd wedding anniversary, and they said seeing all those girls having such a good time was a wonderful anniversary gift.

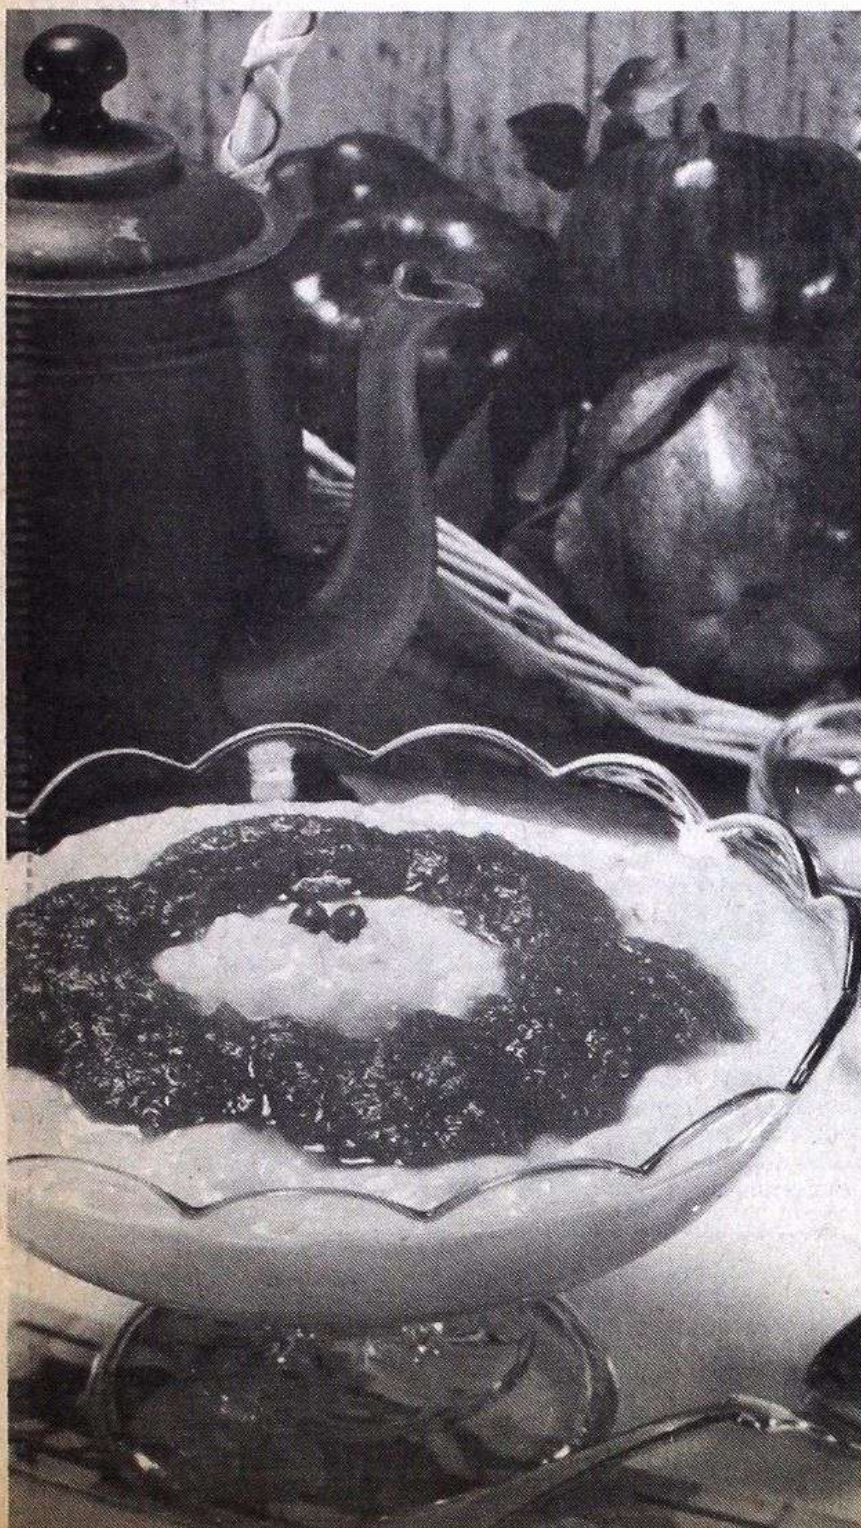

Judi Fender, the Troop's Leader, expresses deep appreciation to her Grandparents, Mrs. Jan Woodworth, Mrs. Cordelia Blake, Mrs. Connie Gubaci, Mrs. Brenda Smith, Mrs. Betty Roberson, Mrs. Fran Eller, Mrs. Jan Winn and Mr. and Mrs. David Fallen for making this trip possible for the girls. She would also like to thank Ford Motor Company for their donation of the use of a van for their trip.

With the New Boston Huron's third annual Applefest just a week off, canoists in the township and area are getting ready for the thrilling race on the Huron River. The race will be staged in age group divisions and is open local and area residents. Preparing for a practice session on the river and helping to publicize the upcoming festival are Rose Bates (from left), Aaron Andring, Linda Dyer, Bev Kummerfelt, Cookie Kowalski, Candi Youtsie and Jini Fullerton. The races will be held Oct. 10, while the Applefest gets underway on October 9.

Spicey rice pudding

Old-fashioned, traditional desserts are enjoying a rebirth of popularity after too many years of being relegated to the back of the recipe file. Creamy rice pudding is again in favor and for good reason.

A complete rice pudding packaged mix takes the work out of preparing dessert but retains all the familiar good taste. By just adding milk and cooking on top of the stove, according to package directions, the basic pudding, which used to take so much time, is ready in a jiffy. Transform it into Spicey Rice Pudding simply by adding a topping of applesauce and red cinnamon candies.

Versatility is this dessert's middle name, whether served warm or chilled. And, it's a hearty, delicious way to serve milk, a good source of protein and calcium.

Spicey Rice Pudding

- 2 cups milk
- 1 package (3 1/4-oz.) rice pudding
- 1/2 cup applesauce
- 1 tablespoon red cinnamon candies

Measure milk into saucepan. Add contents of the pudding pouch. Cook and stir over medium heat until mixture comes to a full boil. Remove from heat. Cover pan and cool 15 minutes. Stir well and cool. Heat applesauce and candies in saucepan until candies are dissolved. Cool and spoon over cooled rice pudding.

So many "experts" seem to think the main topic among women when they're together is their children or grandchildren. But you know what? They're wrong! Have you ever divorced yourself from female conversation — held back and merely listened? I find many gals reluctant to talk of their offspring just because they have been accused of boring and exclusive discussions centering on kids.

But if it isn't kids they're zeroing in on, can you guess what the prime topic is? You probably know, don't you? No, no, no, it's not their husbands. Want three guesses? You're right — it's FOOD!

Four of us were headed Toledo-way recently, the car windows heavy with the condensation caused by a bit of overheated air. The hot and heavy subject, once we'd ascertained our longitude and latitude, was that stuff found in the pantry, fruit cellar, fridge and cupboard — those edibles! And it came in the form of cooking ... and then restaurants ... cooking versus eating out ... microwaving ... grilling, broiling, stir frying ... Toledo, Detroit and Ann Arbor restaurants ... "the" best places for prime rib, seafood, steaks, ribs ... new casseroles ... new squash dishes ... fantastic new hors d'oeuvres ... goodies for noshing.

Every so often there'd be a slight change in tempo, a deviation from groceries to perhaps golf as we passed a country club or speed limits as we spotted a swirling blue light. But, inevitably, we'd return to our palates and stomachs and those of our men-folk and families.

No matter what else turned up momentarily, we'd get back to square one as a Baskin-Robbins semi passed us or we'd get a whiff of something cooking or we'd cruise by a billboard magnifying the name of an interesting dining spot for all to see (and on which to comment.)

No matter what verbal path we chose, it always led back to eating. One of our group had earlier asked if that's all we could talk about and many, many recipes and restaurants later remarked "Good grief, we're talking about food again!"

Well, what of it! It was obvious that all four of us rather enjoy the

St. Aloysius church site of Opificius, Banks vows

In a mid-summer ceremony at St. Aloysius Catholic Church in Romulus, Diane Banks became the bride of Fred Opificius. The Rev. Walter Lezuchowski presided at the August 28 rite before some 120 assembled guests.

Music for the three o'clock double ring wedding was played and sung by Pat Hogan.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Banks of Mario Ann Court, Romulus, the bride was escorted to the sanctuary by her father. For her wedding day she selected a long-sleeved gown of silk venise lace styled with a lace choker neckline above an illusion bodice cut with a V and embellished with Chantilly lace. A lace insert accented the lace-edged skirt which drifted into a chapel train. As her "something old", Diane carried the white satin drawstring purse her mother had used on her wedding day.

Her silk illusion veil fell to waist length from a coronet of white silk flowers and lavender streamers and her cascade bouquet was formed of white cymbidium orchids, sweetheart roses, miniature carnations and baby's breath.

A toe-touching orchid frock was worn by the maid of honor, Betsey Brown of Romulus. Designed in the empire mode, the bodice featured narrow straps and a sheer overblouse with a ruffled neckline. Her bouquet was comprised of miniature carnations, purple statice, and baby's breath surrounding an off-white cymbidium orchid.

Bridesmaids in identical iris-colored ensembles included the couple's sisters: Marilyn Banks Lackey of Detroit and Mary Ann Opificius of Ypsilanti, and Susan Wright of Taylor.

The son of Mrs. Phyllis Opificius of Grove Road, Ypsilanti, the bridegroom asked Ed Richardson of Huron to serve as best man. Groomsman were Robert Moskwa of Alameda, Calif.; Rick Antosik, a cousin from Monroe; and Michael Hoffman of Romulus.

At the Karas House in Westland, where the reception was held, the bride's mother greeted some 200 guests in a formal gown with a slim plum-colored crepe skirt and ivory embroidered chiffon bodice. An A-line gown of pink chiffon was the choice of the bridegroom's mother. Both were honored with orchid corsages.

Both young people are graduates of Romulus High School, the new Mrs. Opificius having earned her diploma in 1976 and her husband two years earlier. She later attended the University of Arkansas and Wayne County Community College and is now working at Beacon Day Care Center in Romulus. The bridegroom served for five years with the U. S. Navy in Hawaii and is currently attending Henry Ford Community College while employed by Stroh's in Detroit.

The rehearsal party was held at the Opificius home in Ypsilanti August 27.

For Smrckas

Open house marks anniversary

An afternoon open house at their home on Potter Drive, Belleville, marked the silver wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Smrcka Saturday, Sept. 11. Hosting the party were their three children, Larry 20; Jeffrey Allen, 19; and Linda Marie, 15, who all live at home.

Members of the Sept. 7, 1957 wedding party on hand to congratulate the pair were Frank Januszko of Belleville; David Schuessler of Manistee; Bonnie Warner of Ypsilanti; Ruth Scarborough of New Boston; Frank Schuessler of Wellston and Barbara Hyder of Southgate.

The tiered anniversary cake made by Mary Posegay, Mr. Smrcka's sister, was topped by the bride and groom decoration used at the wedding 25 years ago. The single rose boutonniere worn by the "bridegroom" was a gift of his Goddaughter, Mary Joann Posegay. Pink roses tied with silver ribbon were pinned to the lavender and white dress which the "bride" chose for the occasion.

Mrs. Smrcka was Elaine Marie Schuessler when she exchanged vows with Robert Albert Smrcka at St. Paul's Lutheran Church in New Boston. He has been employed by the Wayne County Road Commission since 1955 with a 2-year leave to serve with the U.S. Army. His wife worked at the A&P office in Detroit for five years; for Bond Baking in Washington, D. C., for two years and at present is employed by Pinter Bros. Greenhouses in Ypsilanti.

The Smrckas enjoy snowmobiling at their cottage in Wellston, camping and traveling and have been in all but three of the United States.

Both previously served as leaders and assistants for Cub Scout Webelos No. 1071 of the Belleville Methodist Church and both are members of St. Paul's Lutheran Church in New Boston.

In celebration of their 25 years of togetherness, the Smrckas have planned a November trip to Hawaii with her brother and sister-in-law, Don and Fran Schuessler.

Band Boosters need support

The Belleville Band Boosters are up-and-at-'em — attempting to keep the Belleville High School Marching Band a reality. In order to do so, without state aid, they have devised several money-making schemes to help cut the costs of a student's participation in the band.

Since the Boosters have taken on the additional burden of paying the salary of a band director, fund raisers are even more important. Miss Diane Craven recently was appointed to the post with the stipulation the Boosters foot the bill.

One of the ideas for adding to the coffers proved successful at the first home football game of the season. Homemade goodies, always popular with young and old alike, were a hit and sales of squares of brownies, slices of nut bread, pieces of fudge, cookies and caramel apples were big sellers. The group plans to continue the home goodies concession stand and will have in the future popcorn balls as well. All sell for nominal costs between 25 and 50 cents.

At the monthly meeting of the club, Band Booster President Carl Loshinskie led discussion of still further fund-raisers. A cheese and sausage sale is slated for November and tentative plans were laid for another M&M candy sale, a high school dance with a disc jockey and a video game raffle.

At the present time, club members are conducting a "Win-A-Band" raffle with tickets at $1 each. The winner will have the services of the entire marching band, delivered by bus to a spot of his or her choice (anywhere in the school district) for a function of his or her choice. Tickets are available from booster members and also at all home football games.

The group is urging the support of the entire community in its efforts to maintain the tradition of a BHS Marching Band.

WOTM notes

The Legion District Enrollment was held at the Belleville Moose Lodge Sept. 11 with dinner and dancing and a country store arranged by Martha Morton featured.

At the Sept. 12 meeting of the Women of the Moose, one new member, Patricia Lefeures, sponsored by Helen Jacobs, was enrolled.

The next business meeting at the Moose Lodge will be held at 8 p.m. Sept. 27.

role of "cook/chef" in our little abodes but also didn't mind being taken out to dinner whenever the mood (and pocketbook) were right. If we gals didn't have all those good recipes to rave about and exchange or didn't have a super dining spot to boast about we'd probably turn to a much less cheerful and appetizing subject — that of the startling changes in our anatomies and all the quirks, aches and pains that accompany a certain age. Now wouldn't you much rather be with a group talking about their kitchen operations rather than their latest surgery?

AND JUST BECAUSE ...

... I mentioned the word hors d'oeuvre a few paragraphs back, I'm going to let you in on the explanation of its meaning and origin. That will give you something to talk about should you run out of appetizers, soups, salads, entrees or desserts.

According to a leading cookbook, the phrase "hors d'oeuvre" is used to describe savory little appetizers or relishes other than canapés. Canapés, in turn, are defined as "savory appetizers made with a bread, cracker or pastry base so that they can be picked up with the fingers and eaten in one or two bites." Hors d'oeuvres then, include the whole range of cocktail-time tidbits except canapés.

Both words come from the French and each has an interesting background. Would you have guessed, for instance, that canapé originally meant canopy of mosquito netting over a couch or bed? In time it came to mean the bed or divan itself — whence it was taken into English with its present meaning of a bit of bread or cracker over which a tasty mixture of cheese, meat or fish is spread. Hors d'oeuvre, which means literally "outside the work", came to its present meaning because the appetizers referred to are almost invariably served outside of and in advance of the main meal.

At least that's the way the Morris Dictionary explains it and William and Mary are supposed to be the ones in-the-know.

TRIVIA, ANYONE?

- During the July 13-14 New York city "blackout" some years back, when the city lost all electrical power, a record 80 million phone calls were made.

- It might surprise some of you, particularly African violet lovers who grow plants strictly for ornamentation and visual pleasure but — in Elizabethan England violets were eaten raw with onions and lettuce or mixed in a broth.

- All you sneezers, blowers and allergy-ridden wheezers out there — next time you reach for a Kleenex or Puffs remember that facial tissues were originally used as filters for gas masks during World War I. And wouldn't that subtle scent from the latter have been like a touch of home to those doughboys?

- On his route, the average American mail carrier drives 3.6 miles a day, walks another 7.2 miles and delivers mail to 434 addresses. He or she carries up to 35 pounds of mail and delivers 968 letters, bills and such, plus 338 magazine and circulars.

- You can make an excellent pincushion out of a covered steel wool ball or pad. It keeps needles and pins very sharp.

- The average American speaks on the phone about six times a day. (And just think of all the above-average people out there!)

- The English of the 15th to 17th centuries believed that the color red was helpful to the sick. Patients were dressed in red nightgowns and surrounded with red objects. (Is that why they really "saw red" when they got upset?)

THOSE OLD-TIME BEST SELLERS

BACK IN 1921 everyone was reading "Main Street" penned by Sinclair Lewis and a year later were again buying another of his best-sellers, "Babbitt". It took him only a short three years to produce "Arrowsmith" — that was 1925.

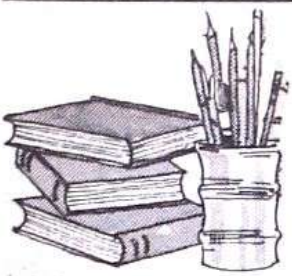

It was in 1926 that Edna Ferber gave us the novel that would later inspire a Broadway musical and Hollywood film. Her "Show Boat" vied with Anita Loos' "Gentleman Prefer Blondes" which, years later, also took theater and movie goers out in droves.

Another title with which we're all familiar, "The Bridge of San Luis Rey", was published in 1928 with Thornton Wilder's name on the cover. The following year bookworms were perusing "All Quiet on the Western Front" by Erich Maria Remarque.

Nineteen-thirty cudos again went to Ferber and Wilder for their respective novels, "Cimarron" and "A Woman of Andros."

There'll be still more in upcoming "potpourris."

THE BOTTOM LINE: The rare individual who unselfishly tries to serve others has an enormous advantage. He has little competition.

lives of a group of girls with chilling results.

"A Woman's Age" by Rachel Billington. The story of four generations of astonishing and sometimes eccentric women in one remarkable upper-class English family. Spanning 70 years, this richly detailed social chronicle is by turns comic, ironic, dramatic and always utterly delicious as it interweaves the themes of love and ambition, mothers and daughters, politics, religion and history.

"Death Mask" by Hugh Pentecost. An absorbing novel of dark happenings which twists and turns to its shattering climax.

"Free Flight" by

Douglas Terman. A spine-tingling novel about a manhunt by land and air — set in Vermont and Canada in the aftermath of World War III.

HISTORY
"The Popes" by Michael Walsh. This traces the papacy's changing role through the centuries. The narrative deals not only with the politics — it also looks at the personalities of the Popes.

"Twilight of Steam" by Colin Garratt. Here, portrayed graphically, are aspects of steam's final years in Britain, France, West Germany, Austria, Spain and Portugal, combined with an historical description of each locomotive and vivid accounts of the author's own experiences.

THE ANIMAL WORLD
"The Living Forest: A World of Animals" by Rien Poortvliet. A compendium of enlightened natural history, delicate observations and creative fantasy. This book cannot fail to instruct and delight anyone who has the preservation and survival of wild creatures at heart and is sensitive to their beauty.

"Frogs" by Gerald Donaldson. This is a festive gathering of these merry, leaping, frolicking creatures from all over the world. Musical, magical and messenger frogs skip, hop and jump for joy in this collection of stories and poems, folklore and fact about our amphibious friends.

Grimm, New to marry

MISS GRIMM

Debra Jean Grimm and Raymond Clifford New Jr. are engaged and planning a Sept. 17, 1983 altar date at St. Paul Lutheran Church.

The daughter of Patricia Grimm of 24390 Waltz Rd., New Boston, and the late Earl Grimm, the bride-elect is a 1980 Huron High School graduate currently working at Apple Tree Lane Nursing Home in Romulus.

Her fiance, the son of Helen New of 4115 Cadillac Rd., Wayne, and the late Raymond New, graduated in 1978 from Wayne Memorial High School.

New on the scene

Rachael Marie Vibber

The birth of a nine-pound baby girl is being announced by Mitchell and Carole Vibber of 42095 Zachary, Belleville. The young lady, who was titled "Rachael Marie," made her debut at 5:43 a.m. Sept. 17 at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Ann Arbor.

The infant, who measured 20 inches, is the granddaughter of Mrs. Marion Kaulitz of Belleville; Dale Kaulitz of Farmington and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Vibber of South Lyon. Great-grandparent honors go to Mrs. Gladys Kaulitz of Lansing; Mrs. Maxine Shore of Mt. Morris; the Loyd Vibbers of Prudenville and the Charles Travens of Dearborn.

Rachael's mother is the former Carole Kaulitz.

Annie Allene Foster

Annie Allene is the name chosen by David and Denise Foster of Ann Arbor, formerly of Belleville, for their first child born Aug. 31. A midwife and the infant's father were in attendance for the home delivery which occurred at 3:12 a.m.

The baby, who weighed 7 lbs. - 6 ozs. and measured 19 inches, is the new granddaughter of the Philip Baileys of Belleville and the Leslie A. Fosters of Ypsilanti.

Her great-grandparents include Mrs. T. J. Foster of Ypsilanti and Mrs. Elmer J. Murley and Mrs. Harry A. Bailey, both of Belleville.

The new mother is the former Denise Bailey.

Katie Bird

Roger and Julie Bird of 215 Belle Villa Blvd., Belleville, are announcing the arrival of a baby girl, their third child, at 9:54 p.m. Sept. 9.

Delivery of the seven-pound infant was made at Beyer Memorial Hospital in Ypsilanti where the name "Katie" was listed on her birth certificate.

Welcoming their mother, the former Julie Tkachuk, and new sister home from the hospital were 4-year-old Carey and her 20-month-old brother, Ryan.

The children's grandparents are the Ralph Birds and Agnes Tkachuk, all of Belleville, and their great-grandmother is Mrs. Violet Bird, also of Belleville.

Ryan Michael Kottke

"It's a boy!" is the news being received these early autumn days by friends and relatives of Michael and Karen Kottke of 48731 Denton Rd., Belleville.

The new heir, who was labeled "Ryan Michael," bowed in at 2:36 p.m. Sept. 18 at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Ann Arbor where his weight was recorded at 8 lbs. - 14 ozs. and his length at 21 inches.

The grandson of the Don Mackies and the George Henrikssons of Belleville, he is also the great-grandson of the Edward Lowes of Belleville.

Ryan's mother is the former Daren Goll.

Four newcomers add to Junior Study Club

Seventeen members and guests attended the opening meeting of the Belleville Junior Study Club Sept. 15 at the home of Cathy Horste on Martinsville Road.

Club President Nancy Sawyer had the privilege of swearing in four newcomers in a specially-written ceremony. Inducted were Kathi Raymond of Ypsilanti and Katie Davies, Pat Antonelli and Tina Le Pendu of Belleville. Guests for the evening were Jan

Miles, Joanie Watts and Vickie Leishner, all of Belleville.

A slide presentation designed for both new and old members depicted the aims and goals of the club's parent organization, the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

Plans laid for the upcoming months included the annual "Ingathering" at Girlstown on Nov. 6; sponsorship of another "Giving Tree" at the National Bank of Detroit; and a Candidates Nite tentatively set for Oct. 29 when all Van Buren Township candidates will be invited to be interviewed by a blue ribbon committee of impartial questioners.

Plans were also made for attendance at three upcoming conferences — the Southeastern District Michigan Federation Convention in Ann Arbor on Sept. 28; the Junior Fall Conference in Pigeon on Oct. 2 and the Great Lakes Conference in Chicago Oct. 25.

Garden Club meets

The Van Buren Garden Club began its 23rd year on Sept. 14 with the following officers in charge of the meeting: Mrs. Timothy Posthumus, president; Mrs. Walter Molik, vice-president; Mrs. Melvin Budd, recording secretary; Mrs. Elbert Ray, treasurer; and Mrs. Henry Deering, corresponding secretary.

Held at the home of Mrs. Deering, the meeting featured a report on butterflies. It was suggested that members do something about enticing and preserving the creatures by planting nectar-filled flowers such as zinnias, phlox, candytuft, scabiosa, ageratum, cosmos, lantana and thistles and to provide a bit of wilderness which is popular with butterflies.

Future plans for the club include a workshop to create living wreaths of hens and chicks plants in October and attendance on Oct. 28 of five members at the District I

Fall Meeting at Mercy Center in Farmington Hills.

The group was informed that from 1 to 3 p.m. Nov. 11 Mrs. Nancy Passfield, District I Director, will present "Williamsburg Holiday Greens" at the Detroit Garden Center in the Crystal Ballroom of the Whittier Towers, 414 Burns Dr., Detroit. For further information, members may call 259-6363.

10 WAYS TO KEEP THE HUSBAND/WIFE LINES OPEN

1. Develop common interests. Learn about each other's occupation or recreational desires. That way you will have something to talk about.
2. Sharpen your sensitivity quotient. Observe your partner for signs of satisfaction, frustration, weariness, etc., and react intelligently.
3. Make yourself an interesting and desirable person to be with. Keep mentally fit and fresh, and don't neglect personal hygiene.
4. Learn to LISTEN. When he/she has something to say, listen attentively.
5. Avoid the "sore spots" in conversation. Don't bring up past failures, arguments, and petty gripes.
6. Learn to accept criticism in a spirit of love and meekness. Examine yourself realistically from the viewpoint of your partner.
7. Discuss problems with a willingness to settle for limited objectives. Don't insist on winning an argument and perhaps losing your marriage.
8. Arrange your spare time so that you can spend it together; without other people around if possible. Don't seek to spend your free time only with those outside of your marriage partner.
9. As a wife, recognize that you need to be careful not to be ruled by your emotions. As a husband, work at being stable and reassuring in love.
10. Take an annual time-out for a husband and wife retreat or "honeymoon" away from home. Use that time to learn about one another, and to renew your marriage vows.

Who ever said having a good marriage is easy??? It takes LOTS OF LOVING WORK.

For this cause shall a man leave his father and mother, and cleave to his wife, and they two shall be one flesh. What therefore God hath joined together, let not man put asunder. Mark 10:7-9

Dream realized — hot air balloon ride a real thrill

By Mrs. Joseph Spring
699-4021

On Sunday, Sept. 19, Betty Parkinson experienced one of several fond dreams for life-after-retirement by taking a hot air balloon ride. She with her friend, Lillian Ray, soared aloft from Hudson Mills Park near Dexter in the "Jelly Bean" piloted by Don Butler. After an exhilarating ride over the countryside for an hour and a half, they landed in a farmer's field near Whitmore Lake where they were picked up by Betty's sister, Velma Kulzer, and a friend, Ada Sager, who had been following the balloon's progress by car. Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Orr were Sunday dinner guests of the former's brother and wife, the Floyd Orrs of Lincoln Park.

Mayor and Mrs. Justin Emerson returned last Saturday from Marquette where they had spent a few days with Mrs. Emerson's mother, Mrs. Mae Znoski, and with her sisters and their husbands. Mr. and Mrs. John Campano and

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Vallar. On Wednesday they arrived at Mackinac Island where the Mayor attended the Municipal League Conference. Miss Alice Brandt of Walnut Creek, Calif.

has been a recent guest of Mr. and Mrs. Ollie Hunter. She came to attend the Hunter's surprise golden wedding party at the Tin Lizzie on Sept. 13. She was among the guests who attended their wedding in Rockford, Ill. in 1932. Other recent guests at the Hunter home were Mr. and Mrs. Steve Szparago of Portage, Ind. and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Harris of Pompano Beach, Fla. Mr. and Mrs. LaMarr Gress spent last week-end in Mt. Pleasant where they attended Parents' Day activities at Central Michigan University with daughter, Natalie, who is a student at the college.

Dr. and Mrs. J. H. Tator were guests of Toledo Ohio friends, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Walton, on Friday and Saturday of last week. Mrs. Ted (Eva) Luper motored to Angola, Ind. recently to join three of her friends who were graduate nurses of Manchester College, where they celebrated the 45th meeting of the "Breakfast Group." They enjoyed eating together at Pokagon State Park.

DAR, Mildred Artley, Phyllis Seaman and Dorothy Kellas, were among those who attended the 82nd State Conference, DAR, held at the Kalamazoo Hilton Inn. Mrs. Elizabeth Raymond and daughters, Mary, Janet and Patti, of Traverse City were week-end guests at the Robert Welt home. Muriel Smith and Juanita Akers were recent luncheon guests of Mrs. Bruce Maslin of Ann Arbor. Mr. and Mrs. E. James Nash of Hazel Park were recent guests of the Ollie Hunters.

Hunter's golden anniversary marked at two celebrations

Two celebrations marked the recent golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Ollie L. Hunter of 23480 Karr Rd., Belleville. The first was held at Grace Baptist Church following the evening service Sept. 12 and the second at the Tin Lizzie Restaurant Sept. 13 where their sons had arranged a surprise celebration in their honor. Some 36 relatives, friends and old neighbors were greeted by Ronald John Hunter of Dearborn Heights, and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hunter of Belleville.

Guests included Mrs. Hunter's sister, Miss Alice A. Brandt of Walnut Creek, Cal., and others from Hazel Park, Dearborn, Port Huron, Waltz, Taylor and Belleville. Wedding music was sung by Miss Brandt and Richard Hunter and included "O Promise Me," "Because" and "I Love You Truly." A violin solo, "All the Way My Savior Leads Me" was played by Richard Hunter.

An anniversary memory book presented to the couple included letters of reminiscences and pictures from friends and relatives in many states. A bouquet of red roses was presented by two of their grandchildren, Joanna Elizabeth and Michael Duane Hunter. Sunday evening's party was a buffet dinner for the entire Baptist Church membership served by the Ladies Group. The head table was arranged by Mrs. Patti Dau with a 2-tiered cake decorated with yellow roses, a gift of the Belleville Bakery, as centerpiece.

A surprise appearance of the Belleville Kitchen Belles under the direction of Myrtle Wells and accompanied by Ken Harden provided music for the happy occasion. Mrs. Hunter is a member of the group. Guests included friends from Faithway Baptist Church in Ypsilanti. Party favors were ribboned scrolls of the printed poem which Ken Harden had written in honor of the Hunter's golden year.

Assistant Pastor Scott Guenther presided in the absence of Pastor Jay Frazier who was hospitalized and

MR. AND MRS. OLLIE HUNTER

Evangelist Doug Martin of Georgia was the evening preacher.

The Hunters were married in the garden of her parents home in Rockford, Ill. and spent their honeymoon in Michigan where Mr. Hunter worked as head chef at Grace Hospital in Detroit. They resided a few years in Cedar Rapids, Ia. before moving to Wayne County where he was a strawberry grower. Mrs. Hunter (Betty) was an elementary school teacher for 27 years in Sumpter and Taylor Townships and both have been active in Baptist churches and senior citizen organizations in the Belleville area.

Besides their two sons and aforementioned grandchildren, they have a third grandchild, Timothy Hunter.

Hurben, Harden marry

Cynthia Harden and Donald Hurben exchanged nuptial vows and wedding bands in a five o'clock ceremony Sept. 18 at Belleville City Hall. The Hon. Justin Emerson, Mayor of Belleville, presided at the late summer rite.

The daughter of Phyllis Blanck of Belleville, the bride was attended by Kathy Mudloff of Belleville.

The bridegroom, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Hurban of Cedarville, asked his brother, Jim Hurban of Cedarville, to serve as best man.

A reception for some 50 guests followed at the Van Buren Township Hall. Among those attending were the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Lentz of Lodi, O.

our opinions

W-W election needs citizen involvement

On Sept. 14 the voters of the Wayne-Westland Community Schools spoke. They, by the democratic process, recalled four members of the Board of Education. The issue in the special election was supposed to be the approval of a contract extension with the district's teaching staff, but admittedly, pulling the yes lever that day more than mirrored residents' discontent with a school government they perceive as impersonal and unlistening.

On Dec. 7 Wayne-Westland voters will be returning to the polls to elect four residents to fill the vacancies on the board, new members who will step into difficult times for the district. Hard decisions will have to be made on how to accommodate hefty state school aid cuts, on what schools in the district should be closed to handle declining enrollment, on layoffs and school programming.

Serving on the Wayne-Westland Board of Education will not be a picnic. It will take citizens, who have a deep concern for their schools, for the quality of education, to face the ire the decisions are bound to create. As the adage goes: "You can please some of the people some of the time, all of the people some of the time, but not all of the people all of the time."

There is just a scant week before nominating petitions must be turned into the school offices, and unlike other school elections, candidates will need 1,685 good signatures to earn a spot on the ballot. It will take determination, and a lot of leg work, to meet the Oct. 7 deadline, and it will separate the would-be candidates from the serious contenders.

We urge interested school district residents to pursue a candidacy in the December election, so that voters will have a choice. School government is no different than local, county, state and federal governments. It is "of the people, for the people and by the people."

At this point in the existence of the Wayne-Westland Schools, such a government is needed, one reflective of the entire community, not of specific interest groups. Such a representative board can heal the wounds of the recall and keep the district moving ahead.

We urge the residents of Wayne-Westland to get involved in this election. It is for their and their children's benefit and for the good of an excellent educational system.

the hillenbrand report

By BERNARD F. HILLENBRAND

Suburban Chicago's Maine Township North High School once served 1,700 students. In 1981, district enrollment dwindled, and the 12-year-old facility closed amid public outcry. Maintenance costs on the empty, surplus space is $34,000 a month, plus interest on the construction bonds.

Architect C. William Brubaker, a school planner, figures the debt could be canceled if the building were sold or leased for offices. So far, the community can't agree on its future.

Stephen Palmer School in Needham, Mass., met kinder fate. Declared surplus in 1975, it was turned over to the town for disposal. Demolition would have cost $23,000. Instead, each classroom became a condominium. The town earns over $15,000 annually on the developer's 50-year lease.

"Public school enrollment has plummeted as the average number of children per family dropped from 3.7 in 1957 to 1.8 today. Some 7,000 schools — worth about $5.6 billion — closed in the last decade. Whereas most were elementaries, these days larger high schools and colleges are shutting down.

A few communities, like Needham, have profited from surplus space. But most are caught in fierce battles between neighborhoods and government agencies intensely jealous when it comes to deciding what schools to close, and when.

The issue is as explosive as desegregation. And some of the complaints are the same. Parents feel threatened with loss of control over their children's education, dislike additional travel time, and suspect falling standards. Residents fear neighborhood decay.

What happens to a community when the school moves out?

A New York study found no relationship between neighborhood decline and school closings. The research suggests it is not loss of the school — but future use of the building — that causes neighborhoods to change.

"Vacant schools between victims of vandalization, deterioration, decreasing market value and decay. Rapid disposition is critical," says Richard S. Kirssinger of the Connecticut Department of Education, who has seen 150 schools close recently.

Local government officials can no longer afford the political infighting that has delayed reuse of thousands of properties. Nor is conflict resolved when the buildings are finally declared surplus. Then officials must decide on a new use.

Champaign County, Ill., confronted the problem of surplus schools in the 1970's. They established specific criteria for selection of schools to be closed. They looked at demographic data, maintenance, and changing neighborhood character. Planning took place in advance of closings, and residents were involved.

Baltimore County, Md., has a Shared Space Council that reviews proposals for reuse. It makes space available to community agencies before offering it to private businesses. Popular projects have included a police station and police academy.

In West Hartford, Conn., the town council voted to keep old Hall High School for municipal offices.

A surplus school in Frederick County, Md., has become a new community center. Now Emmittsburg, Md., residents receive county services even though they live 25 miles from the courthouse. The facility holds a health clinic, teen center, gym, senior citizens center, library and social service office. Similarly, the Human Resources Development Center in Hamilton, Tenn., houses 40 public and private agencies in a school.

Private developers love old schools — when they can get a hold of them.

Montgomery County, Md., will lease 23 buildings in two years. Over 150 people are interested in them — for churches, laboratories, day care center private schools, mental health programs and nursing homes. Annual rents will range from $30,000 to $200,000.

Architects have put many old schools to good use. A Claremont, Calif., school became a shopping responsibility to keep schools open. Additionally, a growing majority of voters do not have children in school — children who are the first to be affected by a lack of community support.

How do we get the message to our community that we will be affected locally and nationally if we cannot educate the children of the 80's to lead us in the 21st century?

If we cannot be as long-ranged in our vision, we should at least realize our property values will be affected in the short-range, if we cannot provide minimal services to our community.

The Board of Education realizes the economic hardships of our community. However, if we wait to increase taxes until we are in a severe deficit, the millage amount will be higher, and it will be longer before we can provide a more complete education for our children. Therefore, this two mill increase is strictly a "no frill" request.

We hope that your staff can present the case to your readers in such a way that we all can have confidence in our community and the services provided for us where we live.

We thank you for the concern the newspaper has shown for education, and remain confident that it will continue to provoke your readers to serious thought concerning their decisions at the polls.

Come down, you coward

guest editorial

Van Buren voters have a responsibility

The Board of Education of the Van Buren Public Schools would like to thank your staff for the recent editorial coverage of area school elections (specifically September 8 & 9, 1982).

As you have previously printed, on October 2, 1982, we are asking voters to approve a two mill increase for the purpose of maintaining our current educational program level. That educational level is not one that can boast about and yet we can, and should, have pride in providing a "basic education" for children in times of austerity. Maintaining an essential education for our community is the issue now (versus in the past, providing a "good" education for our children).

Our auditors have expressed their deep concern for the insufficient financial support for Van Buren Schools. However, they also have commended us for keeping expenditures within 3/10 of one percent of our budget. We have been advised that, due to the state's financial difficulties, we could face a severe deficit situation next year.

We desperately need this millage to offset that loss of state financial support, to provide moderate incremental raises (for additional years of employee service) to employees, and to meet rising energy and medical insurance costs primarily. It should be noted that employees do not currently receive cost of living increases.

PCHA's rebate a 'factoid'

Tom Mooradian
Managing Editor

First it was Milton Mack, the young attorney and Wayne councilman who has one hand on the Wayne County Commissioner's seat who raised the question:

"Show me where the Attorney General's opinion addresses itself to the PCHA rebate, and I'll buy you a breakfast."

Then the Mayor of Wayne, Patrick Norton, asked: "Have you read the Attorney General's opinion on the subject?"

And, finally I knew something had gone wrong when Maureen Camps, director of public affairs for the PCHA (also known as the Peoples Community Hospital Authority) marched into the offices and handed Frank Kelley's opinion to me and said: "Show me."

The controversy surrounded whether an August 16 opinion by Kelley did, indeed, deal with PCHA refunding some $22 million in reserves to its members. We had written an editorial that, since cities were hurting, the money would be wisely used to shore up financial loopholes in our communities.

If the editorial was truly based on a factoid, a published account of something that inevitably proved wrong, then it was obviously our duty to correct it.

It was microscopically clear to me that some columnist in a metropolitan newspaper started the range fire by stating that the coast was cleared by the attorney general for PCHA to refund the $22 million.

However, nowhere is there proof to substantiate that statement. A trio of city officials who represent their municipalities have placed a resolution on the PCHA table, asking their colleagues for support to retake that money. I think "retake" is the right verb. After all, the monies were raised by assessments (0.4 mills) levied, by law, on member communities.

But back to the Attorney General's opinion. The question was raised of him by State Rep. Thomas J. Anderson: "Is the PCHA required to certify the 4/10 mill levy to the member municipalities as long as the hospital bonds are outstanding?"

Now here's Kelley's conclusion to the question:

"... It is my opinion, therefore, that the PCHA is required by 1945 PA 47, Paragraph 8, supra, and the Ordinance to certify the 4/10 mill levy yearly to the member municipalities as long as the debt service on the bonds is equal to the greater than estimated proceeds of the levy unless the debt service reserve contains a sum sufficient to meet the maximum debt services on the bonds to become due to any two future fiscal years, in which event the levy may be reduced or eliminated as further provided in the Ordinance."

Dear reader, have a good day.

Here are 101 uses for our surplus schools center. An abandoned, but architecturally significant school in Dallas was renovated for the office of Sedco, Inc., an oil drilling firm.

Since most schools are in residential neighborhoods, they make perfect apartments. Enfield, Connecticut's Mark Twin Elementary is being converted to congregate housing for the elderly at $25 a square foot, far cheaper than new construction.

In Acton, Mass., a recently-closed elementary was simply rented to a nursing service to provide the town some income and allow time to decide future use. This is often a wise move, because birth-rates are not predictable.

The dollar value of these wasted resources is astonishing: In New York, 64 schools have closed and 222 will be closed by 1990. Conversion and sale have been hopelessly tied up in red tape.

A few years ago the city had 250,000 square feet of excess space, yet spent over $1 million annually renting slightly less than 250,000 square feet of private space. More than half of the rental property was used for child care, recreation, counseling and other social services that could have been offered in schools.

The problem is not exclusive to New York. Although laws and government structure vary from state to state, most public agencies avoid sharing space. In some states it isn't even legal.

Recently, economic necessity has helped some communities overcome the bureaucracy. Officials have begun to realize, as Brubaker explains, "Unless they cooperate, the public will find someone who can."

Agencies that refuse may be forced into it. Florida has enacted a law that requires state and local government to inventory surplus space before new construction is permitted. Other states are considering similar legislation.

"There are no economic or architectural problems in reusing old schools," Brubaker insists. "It's purely a political problem."

It is one local government can no longer afford.

In defense of police officers

EDITOR—I am writing this letter in regards to Ellen Slamer's letter Sept. 9.

As having a business in Wayne and also living in Wayne, I am also concerned about our police department here in the city of Wayne.

I have to personally say we have one of the finest police departments in the state.

Any time we have called the police department they answered very quickly, and have taken care of the problem quickly.

I can remember when the storm of July 1981 struck our city, the entire city was in a black out. It would have been a thieves dream here in Wayne. All the alarms were not working, no lights, no phones, just total black.

But the department did their duty for six days with only one large incident and the thieves were apprehended. There could have been looting, breaking and enterings, but with patrols watching constantly it did not happen. I think they did a super job. If one could just drive down a sidewalk at 3 a.m., I am sure you would understand how impossible it is to see in someone's backyard, especially around a garage.

Did the letterwriter tell the officer about the cars next door or about the house being empty and you thought that they might be in the house?

As for the officer who responded at 2:30 a.m., I am sure if there was sufficient evidence of forced entry he would have checked your entire yard and cars.

He probably left promptly to check the area to see if they were still in your neighborhood. The time span between 2:30 a.m. and 6:10 a.m. is over 3½ hours. It is possible that somebody did return and sleep in your car? Was the car door locked? Do you have any kind of yard lights that go on at dusk and off at dawn? These would be a big deterrent or crime if everybody used these and it only costs about 15 cents a day to operate.

With the high rate of unemployment there is going to be a higher theft rate. I would not criticize the police department because it was not their fault the theft occurred.

We are one of the fortunate cities to have a full force. Cities around us like Canton and Inkster, and even the Wayne County road patrol have laid off or are short handed because of budget cuts or lack of money.

I would have to say being a patrolman is not an easy job. There is much more to it than writing tickets. With family problems, accidents, fights, and regular patrol of streets, it's very difficult to be every place at one time.

With a population over 20,000 people within the city, not counting all the traffic that goes through the city it has to be a very hard job.

The officers in Wayne are very dedicated and every patrolman should receive a medal of valor.

I'm sure each and every one does risk his life each and every day for the people of Wayne.

Now, I would like to express my appreciation to the Wayne police department for their above and beyond efforts in patrolling the city. They are officers both the department and the city of Wayne can be proud of. This is one way we convey our gratitude to them.

A reply to 'concerned citizen'

EDITOR—I would like to answer Concerned Citizen On the Van Buren Twp. Police over reacting at the recent Wayne County Fair.

Dear Concerned Citizen: As a resident of Belleville and Wayne County also, I would like to reply to your letter in Associated Newspapers (Sept. 22, 1982).

First, I noticed you were concerned but not enough to sign your name. Second, I noticed you stated you are a member of a 4-H group. From this I assume you are a youth member and not a parent of a member or a leader of a 4-H group.

Also you did not state how long you have been associated with 4-H. I have been a working volunteer 4-H Leader in horses project 17 years. Also was Dorm Mother for 5 years.

I also served as Parade Chairman for 12 years. Therefore as you can see I have been around for a while.

Over the years, I have seen the Van Buren Township Police Department do only good work. In years past and more recent ones, I have seen young 4-H members being gullible and losing money their parents had given them to purchase their meals for the week. Lose it to the toss games. Lose it to the games run by adults that should know better. I have also seen the Police rightfully go and get the money back for the youth.

After hours when the fair is closed down and being that I was staying on the grounds chaperoning the youth girls staying in the dorms, I have seen many incidents take place by the midway workers. Stories that would curl your hair, all of it ending with the police doing their duty and stopping the incident either with a strong warning or sometimes in an arrest if that is the only way it could go.

The last two years being I do not have a horse club anymore I have willingly worked out many evenings at the front gate. You want to learn about harassment? Work out there a few times and you will learn very quickly that police are within their rights.

Like you, I could not be everywhere at once during the week on the grounds so some of the stories you hear many times turn out to be only rumor. Or perhaps walking up on a situation toward the end and not getting doubts. If the police seem they are coming down hard believe me they have to be as that is sometimes the only way some people will listen.

Get to know your local Van Buren Twp. Police and believe me you will find they are people too, and a darn good bunch of officers. Last, but not least, I have met our new chief and believe me he too is a person and a very nice one. There is much more I could write, in fact I could write a book on my experiences as a 4-H Leader, Parent and Dorm Mother, during Fair week. Instead just name me also a Concerned Citizen.

Vote 'yes' on VB millage

Editor—My family and I will vote "Yes" on Saturday Oct. 2 for Van Buren Public Schools two millage proposals.

We do not have anyone attending the school system. Then, why would we vote "Yes"?

It's because we have already educated our four young people in Van Buren schools and are proud of their accomplishments.

We want the same educational opportunities to be available to the future young people of this area. A sound school system means better learning opportunities for the upcoming students.

Inflation, tax shifts and the economy all take their toll and the school systems are no exception. Education, once learned, cannot be taken away. It is a bargain not to be passed over.

Think of Van Buren schools future and it's youth — say "Yes" to Van Buren School — Oct. 2nd.

Jaycees thank CPR participants

Editor — The Belleville Area Jaycees would like to thank the following people for their participation in the CPR class which was held on Sept. 21 & 23.

The students: Sharon Spraga, Sylvia Mills, Gene Hougland, Rutlana Hougland, Glen Hougland, and Michael Radecki, Instructor Carol Johnson of the American Red Cross, The Belleville Fire Dept., for the use of the meeting room at the fire hall on Second and Liberty, Mrs. Morris Divian, Manager at the Belleville Main Branch of the National Bank of Detroit for allowing the Jaycees to place their sign on NBD property for advertising, and the people at the Belleville Enterprise.

The Belleville Area Jaycees will be sponsoring more CPR classes in the future so if you or a friend would like to attend please call the Belleville Area Jaycees New CPR Chairman, Tom Griffin, who also happens to be the Belleville Fire Dept. Assistant Fire Chief, at 697-3041. Congratulations to Deborah and Tom.

Don't mix landfills and humans

EDITOR — I was very much taken back by the editorial "Those Laws That Govern Us" in your September 23, 1982 Edition. In it a very negative juxtaposition was made, even if subconsciously, by the writer.

It is unfortunate that state law creates forced conditions upon local residents. But consequently, when an adult care home for citizens with disabilities becomes analogous to a landfill with toxic chemicals, I am not comfortable.

The difference in the underlying issues is too significant and too moral to mix toxic landfills with human beings which only emphasizes the writer's main point. I disagree only with the implied comparison.

When you consider the sustained efforts to keep adult care homes out of the more affluent communities, another of the writer's points, that townships with no money have less defenses, appears to be true.

My point is that we, in our communities, already have too many negative images of persons with disabilities to carelessly plant another one.

Schools suffer 'from cancer'

Editor: I heard a very sad story at the coffee shop this morning. The more I thought about it, the sadder I became.

Van Buren Schools have cancer. The very close family has known for a number of months now.

Van Buren Schools has the type of cancer which attacks small, but vital organs and kills both the ability and will to live over a long period of time.

Van's immediate family has taken him to Dr. General Public a number of times now. Dr. General Public seems to recognize that Van is in worse shape than a while back, but he just shrugs and says, "Don't worry, it could be quite some time before Van dies. I realize he is suffering, and just isn't what he used to be, but he should be grateful that he is still alive. I have a number of other problems which are more pressing right now, but, if Van every gets to the point that there is absolutely no hope, rush him right into the emergency room and I promise to do just enough to keep him alive."

What makes this so depressing is that Van has such a large family. There are so many children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren who have come from Van that it would be impossible to count them all. Many of these offspring, even though they live nearby, have turned their backs on Van in his hour of need.

The immediate family knows that only a miracle can save Van. A specialist from Lansing has been called in to look at Van's case. Dr. State of Michigan, just as Dr. General Public, says that the cancer may well be terminal. Dr. Michigan says that he really has his hands full and that we definitely should not look for any miracles from him. Dr. Michigan says his own life is in a mess right now too, and if there is only enough medicine for a few, he must take care of those close to him first.

Up until now the close family of Van has been able to provide enough money to keep Van alive, however, he is dying a slow agonizing death. The cancer has been attacking his vital organs one by one. His six hour day is completely gone, his accreditation is in immediate jeopardy, his band program is a mere skeleton of it's prior self, the sports program has been kept alive by transubstantiations but it may not work for much longer. Van's whole body is being constantly attacked by this cancer and all the immediate family can do is try to keep him alive and the funds they have available. Even this may end soon unless Dr. Michigan relents in the near future and starts distributing his valuable medicine soon.

Van's family is holding a fund raiser on October 2, 1982 at the local Elementary and High Schools in an attempt to raise enough money to keep Van alive and functioning just a little longer in hopes that Dr. Michigan might come through with a miracle or that Van's very large family might get behind the cause and provide enough money for the necessary operations and transplants to keep Van Alive and active for at least awhile.

Some of his family want to just take away all of the medicine and pull the plug, thereby letting Van die.

It is a sad case, I hope Van's family and all other interested persons show up at the fund raiser to show him that they truly feel he is a vital part of this community, and to show him some respect for all he has contributed to the people of this community over all these years. Some things are just too important and precious to let them go without a fight, and Van Buren School system is one of them.

Memories can be deceiving

Boise, Idaho — Being together with my two sisters and meeting once again friends of my childhood, cousins who were like sisters and brothers to me, and others who at one time or another meant a great deal in my life, has convinced me of one absolute, incontrovertible fact, and that is that you can't depend on memory.

I remember myself as a wondrous young thing, racing through a rosebud of life, reaching out for rainbows and never feeling the rain.

As I meet these loved ones of my youth I hear myself saying over and over again, "I don't remember that." And they all chorus, "Oh Joyce, you HAVE to remember that."

I remember being joyously in love with someone all of my growing up years. My sister remember me being in desperate anguish over lost loves during those years.

"I wasn't despairing," I say. "Oh, Joyce," my sisters will say. "Don't you remember throwing yourself over the bed and sobbing your heart out when you broke up with (whoever it was I was in love with). "I wasn't in despair," I retort. "I was suffering. I loved to suffer. I wasn't happy unless I was suffering."

"Oh Joyce," they will say and give each other that look that means you have gotten a bit soft in the head and can't remember much.

Suffering over a lost love was a beautiful experience. It put me in a class with Camille and other great tragedies of literary history. I walked in the glory of my tragic suffering. I stood on the high bridge over the river and thought about ending my life to show how much I had loved and lost. I watched the autumn leaves fall to the ground in their golden glory and thought how much like my love that leaf was. Particularly after I had walked on it.

Oh, I suffered. And my memory of all that suffering was that it was beautiful. My sisters recall my despair.

The problem with memory is that we are all different and we experience things differently. We also perceive things differently. Our perception is colored by who we are...our personalities, our interests and what makes us happy.

Each time we tell a story of the past we embellish it a bit by the personalities with whom we are talking. We also change the actual memory around to help us. If we cannot bear to think of the hurt a certain memory holds for us, we tend to create a covering for it, to ease the hurt and make it more acceptable to our psyche's. What we are doing, of course, is proving that human memory is selective, and both perception and memory are affected by personality, motivation, emotion, environment, background and all kinds of other things.

Most of the time we really don't need perfect recall, and scientists are now saying that perfect recall is exactly what we don't have. And even more apparent is the fact that each time we recall a memory it is subject to change, depending on who we are talking to, or the environment we are in, or whether we have just coated over some painful memories.

The whole problem of people's

suggestibility and the fallibility of memory is causing considerable problems for our legal system according to psychologists. In other words there is no way that a court of law can depend on the memory of witnesses, for each witness has selectively altered his memory to accept only that which relates to him.

Come to think of it...this could do something to marriages, too. When one's husband comes home and has lipstick smeared across his cheeks and he says he has been out kissing babies because he's thinking of running for office, don't accuse him of lying. Just know that he has selectively altered his memory as to what a baby is.

And who can say he is wrong? Remember that memory is affected by personality, motivation, emotion...And babies are everywhere!

thing would be murder to have to sustain over a lifetime.

So it would seem silly for a 60-year-old — or even a forty-year-old — to say that he or she would want to be 20 again. For one thing, nobody would ever believe it. Nobody in their right minds would want to be 20 again.

We do a terrible thing to our young people, telling them they are adults at age 18. Nobody knows better than they that nothing could be further from the truth. It's possibly why they work so hard at staying kids — and so often do kid-like things that we adults consider "irresponsible."

At one time there might have been good reason to become an adult at 18. Or even at 14 or 15. When the life expectancy was only 40 or 50, you couldn't afford the luxury of sitting around being a kid.

But now that more and more people are still enjoying life at 70 and 80, the urgency attached to being an adult is no longer there. Nonetheless, we cling to tradiday before, when I was still 39. In fact, I felt the same as I did when I turned 30.

Which is to say that when I turned 30, I felt different from the day before, when I was 29.

When I was 29 I thought youth was still on my side. I was still "in my 20s". When I look at it now, from the vantage point of an additional 15 years, I realize that turning 30 should have been done with a sigh of relief.

Once you get past 30, there are no hurdles to jump anymore. You've served your apprenticeship and you're on your way to becoming a bona fide adult.

What everybody knows — young and old — but nobody can seem to accept, is that regardless of what's on paper, you're still a kid when you're in your 20s. But you're a kid in an adult's body, and the tough part is that for 24 hours out of every day you have to work at being a kid among the kids and an adult among the adults. It's schizophrenia time, and it's a relief when it's over by the time you're 30. That sort of

The appeal of the '30's'

A group called Cadwell Davis Partners - Advertising conducted a telephone survey a while back and asked people of varying ages what age they actually felt. Almost without exception, those people middle-aged and beyond said they felt 30 to 36 years old. They also found that people under age 30 tended to feel older than they actually were.

"The 30s seem to have an eternal appeal," the surveyors said. If those same people had called me, I would have said, off the top of my head, I feel the age I am. But as I think about it more, I realize that I do feel, at age 45, the same as I did at age 30.

No doubt about it, age 30, for me, was the turning point. Not that I've never felt traumatized by other birthdays. I have. I suffered through 39 worse than I did through any other year. That was because I thought it was expected of me to flip over 40. But when I turned 40, nothing happened. I felt the same as I did the

Pvt. Farmer completes OSUT training

Army Pvt. Carl D. Farmer, son of Dewey C. and Fredalee Farmer of 10548 Jackson St., Belleville, has completed one station unit training (OSUT) at the U.S. Army Infantry School, Fort Benning, Ga.

OSUT is a 12-week period which combines basic combat training and advanced individual training.

The training included weapons qualifications, squad tactics, patrolling, landmine warfare, field communications and combat operations. Completion of this course qualifies the soldier as a light-weapons infantryman and as an indirect-fire crewman.

Soldiers were taught to perform any of the duties in the rifle or mortar squad.

Farmer is a 1981 graduate of Belleville High School.

Airman 1st Class Ricky E. Krzesinski, son of George J. and Jean M. Krzesinski of 49904 W. Huron River Drive, Belleville, has graduated from the U.S. Air Force security police specialist course at Lackland Air Force Base, Texas.

Graduates of the course studied security and law enforcement and earned credits toward an associate degree in applied science through the Community College of the Air Force.

Krzesinski will now serve at Hill Air Force Base, Utah.

Airman Michael F. Eby, son of Rufus F. and Elizabeth Eby at 4780 Scofield Carleton Road, Carleton, has been assigned to Keesler Air Force Base, Miss., after completing Air Force basic training.

During the six weeks at Lackland Air Force Base, Texas, the airman studied the Air Force mission, organization and customs and received special training in human relations.

In addition, airmen who complete basic training earn credits toward an associate degree in applied science through the Community College of the Air Force.

The airman will now receive specialized instruction in the communications-electronics systems field.

He is a 1973 graduate of Monroe Catholic Central High School, Monroe.

His wife, Elizabeth, is the daughter of Stanley and Lucy Zaleski of 5546 San Juan, Toledo, Ohio.

Airman Daniel T. Schroeck, son of Hubert J. Schroeck of Riverside, Mich., and Dolores A. Ion of 21874 Fenster, Belleville, has been assigned to Lowry Air Force Base, Colo., after completing Air Force basic training.

During the six weeks at Lackland Air Force Base, Texas, the airman studied the Air Force mission, organization and customs and received special training in human relations.

In addition, airmen who complete basic training earn credits toward an associate degree in applied science through the Community College of the Air Force.

The airman will now receive specialized instruction in the supply field.

Schroeck is a 1980 graduate of Belleville High School.

Landlord worries about tenant

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Brian A. Walters is an Attorney at Law engaged in the general practice of law in Van Buren Township. He is a 1977 graduate of Oakland University and received his Juris Doctorate from Detroit College of Law in 1980. While attending law school he clerked for the Chief Judge of the 14th District Court and worked for the Consumer Protection Agency of Wayne County. If you have legal questions, please write Mr. Walters in care of Associated Newspapers, Inc., 35540 Michigan Ave., Wayne, Michigan. His column will appear weekly in the ANP editions.)

By BRIAN A. WALTERS

Dear Mr. Walters:

I have decided to rent my home to a young couple. If trouble should develop, for what reasons can I have them evicted?

Concerned Landlord

Dear Concerned Landlord:

You may recover possession of the premises for non-payment of rent due under the lease agreement. This is achieved by serving the tenants with a seven day notice to quit. They then have seven days to pay or move out.

You may also recover possession after termination of the lease pursuant to such power in the lease and the tenant remains in possession.

Also, when the tenant wilfully or negligently causes a serious and continuing health hazard to exist on the premises or causes damage to the property and refuses to relinquish possession or repair the premises.

Other reasons are available depending on the circumstances.

Remember, you can't gain possession if your primary motive is a penalty for the tenant's attempt to secure or enforce rights under the lease or under the laws of this state, a governmental subdivision of this state, or of the United States.

You also are not entitled to possession if your motive is primarily as a penalty for the tenant's complaint to a governmental authority that you, the landlord, violated a health or safety code or ordinance.

Postal employees net honors

Safe Driving Awards were presented to 23 employees of the U.S. Postal Service at Belleville. The twenty-three awards represent 194 man years of accident free driving at the Belleville Post Office.

"It's a truly commendable achievement, considering total vehicle mileage is in excess of 125,000 miles per year," said Tobin.

Tobin was presented awards and assisted in the presentations by S.A. Wyrabkiewicz, Vehicle Operations Maintenance Assistant and Mr. Gilvert Dingman, Supt. Postal Operations at the Belleville Post Office.

The award winners and the number of accident free years of driving are:

Joseph Justin 1 year, Leo Kerner 1 year, John Stone 1 year, Ellen Tupacz 1 year, Thomas MacDonald 2 years, Paul Vance 2 years, Deborah Bentley 3 year, Mary Bourke 3 year, Donald G. Ellis 4 year, Barbara Cox 5 year, Colin Jordan 6 year, Blanche Chatman 7 year, Verna Kaminski 8 year, Robert Bright Jr. 9 year, Diane Copeland 9 year, Deborah Peterson 9 year, Robert A. Series help solve family problems

Wayne County residents can gain helpful information about ways to cope with various types of problems through the new Learning for Living Center, being offered by Family Service of Detroit and Wayne County, A Torch Drive Agency.

A series of educational group sessions is slated to begin in mid October.

Participants will be able to share and learn about coping with stress, living single, developing a marriage, improving parent-child relationships, dealing with violence in the home, alcoholism, adjustment to divorce, remarriage, caring for aged parents, and unemployment.

The sessions will be held at various Family Service district offices located throughout Wayne County and fee is based on ability to pay. For further information and registration, interested persons may call 833-3733.

Daly Restaurants

Burger and foot long hot dog become habit forming

By DENNIS NIEMIEC
Feature Editor

Diners in the metropolitan Detroit area first succumbed to the "Daly habit" in 1948. That's when Bill Ihlenfeldt opened the first Daly Restaurant on what is now known as Beech Daly Road.

Today two of Ihlenfeldt's nephews — Paul Ihlenfeldt and Gary Grace — are continuing the Daly tradition at their restaurants in Westland and Romulus.

"We've added new sandwiches, desserts and some Italian dishes since the spring," explained Paul Ihlenfeldt, who manages the Daly eatery at 1622 South Wayne Road. "The menu has been varied through the years, but the Dalyburger and Dalydog haven't changed at all."

The Dalyburger features a quarter-pound of ground beef on a sesame seed bun topped with an "everything" sauce including mustard, ketchup, horseradish and onions. It sells for $1.60 or $2.90 with french fries or hash browns and cole slaw.

For $1.80 the Dalydog provides over a foot long hot dog covered with spicy coney island sauce, mustard and finely diced onions. A combination plate is priced at $3.10.

"As far as I know, we were the first chain to offer the foot long hot dog," pointed out Grace, owner of a Daly's at 12224 Huron River Drive near Northline and another in Plymouth. "Our motto once was that we offer sit down meals at stand in line prices."

"That sums up our operations." Among the new Daly sandwiches are kielbasa ($1.60), chicken ($2.25), veal parmesan ($1.85) and meatball ($1.75). They join such established favorites as the double-burger, chili-round, hamdinger, fish and Chee-Chee, a combination of cheese and chili.

Dinner entrees include chicken, veal cutlet, fish filet, shrimp, smelt, clam strips, Daly-ground steak and the Italian dishes — spaghetti, veal parmesan and spaghetti and meatballs.

Daly-Maid soup and chili top the list of side orders. For the dessert lover, a wide variety of sundaes, banana and brownie splits, strawberry and peach shortcakes, German chocolate cake and cheese-cake fit the bill nicely.

The facilities in Westland and Romulus each offer car hop service and inside dining areas with seating capacities of 50 in Westland and 96 in Romulus. Carry outs are available at no extra charge.

"There are six Daly Restaurants and they're all family owned," noted Grace. "In the past people who wanted to open franchises were turned down. We prefer to stay small."

Grace's Romulus outlet is open from 11 a.m. till 11 p.m. Sunday thru Thursday and from 11 a.m. till 1 p.m. Friday and Saturday. In Westland, Ihlenfeldt's staff conducts business from 11 a.m. to 1 a.m. Sunday thru Thursday and from 11 a.m. to 2 a.m. Friday and Saturday.

And as their uncle Bill Ihlenfeldt notes on all Daly menus: "The Daly Family Restaurants believe it boils down to putting themselves in your shoes...then we can look at the quality, the service and the price as you do...and ask ourselves over and over if there is any way we can serve you better."

For more than 33 years that service has produced a growing "Daly habit."

Tiger tamer

The world's notable animal trainer, Gunther Gebel-Williams, commands tigers, horses, elephants and even a baby giraffe in his act, which will be featured when the Ringling Bros. and Barnum and Bailey Circus comes to the Joe Louis Arena on Oct. 12-17. Tickets are on sale at the Louis Arena and all CTC outlets.

Prepare your rig for winter storage

By BOB SAWITSKI
Playtime Special Writer

One spring when a fishing buddy was preparing his boat for the fishing season, the first thing on his list was to take the outboard motor in for a tuneup.

But when the mechanic checked it over, he gave my buddy some bad news. He found that the whole lower unit had to be replaced, the valves needed to be reground, and a new carburetor was required, in addition to the tuneup. He ended up paying ten times more than he expected to pay.

Why was all this necessary? The mechanic's answer was that my hapless buddy did not winterize his outboard motor.

You can bet he'll do it this year. And if your outboard motor is too big and heavy to remove from your boat and stash in your basement, you, too, better follow these steps:

First, submerge the prop in water (the experts use a flush plate, but an oil drum or a trash can will work). Start the motor and spray rust preventing oil directly into the carburetor until it stalls. This will lubricate and protect all internal working parts.

Also, remove the spark plugs and spray the oil into the openings, then replace the plugs. This will coat the cylinder walls and keep them from rusting or becoming ruined from freezing.

Restart the motor and run it for a few minutes to circulate the oil. Then disconnect the fuel line from the motor and let it run out of gas. Empty the fuel tank.

Then drain the lower unit. This is the part of the motor that hangs down the back of your boat and has a propeller on the bottom. The lower unit is full of grease, but it's possible that water has seeped in and will freeze and cause problems if it is allowed to remain over the winter months. When you're sure all the water and old grease is out, refill it with fresh grease.

This entire process can be completed in an hour or so, and you can rest assured your motor will be in top shape when you get it ready next spring.

The boat trailer should also be prepared for the long winter. Inspect your trailer thoroughly. Test each nut and bolt with a wrench to see if it has loosened. Sometimes bolts elongate their holes and such a test will detect this problem. If

BRUCE SPRINGSTEEN "Nebraska" (Columbia)

The cover photo is a view out of the front window of a car as it rambles down a bleak, desolate piece of highway, as threatening clouds billow overhead, just adding to the barren sense of gloom that seems unavoidable and unending.

This, photo is, in essence, "Nebraska," the album. The latest chapter in the legacy of Bruce Springsteen, and his first solo effort.

Word has it that Springsteen surprised everyone one day by delivering "Nebraska" to his record company. They were expecting the next LP from Bruce and the E. Street Band, which was being recorded and mixed by the band (it's new release date is the first of the year,) but what they received was an album recorded by Springsteen alone on a four-track recorder, featuring only his voice, his acoustic guitar, and his harmonica.

And it's his emotive singing, coupled with the sparse sound of the four-track and the nature of the songs that make "Nebraska" the most depressing album I've ever heard.

Depressing not because it's bad — far from it, it's a brilliant piece of work — but because it's meant to be. The view from these songs is the same view as we get on the cover: dark, gloomy, and never-ending — there's no relief in sight. Except maybe in the ultimate end — death.

The title cut is the story of a man who picks up a girl rider, and together they kill 10 people. "From the town of Lincoln, Nebraska, with a sawed-off .410 on my lap/Through to the badlands of Wyoming I killed everything in my path." It continues:

"I can't say that I'm sorry for the things that we done At least for a little while sir, me and her we had us some fun."

The story ends with a rather disturbing statement, one that implies that no one is really innocent, that it's all a matter of degree: "They wanted to know why I did what I did/Well sir, I guess there's just a meanness in this world."

Most of the other songs are in this same vein; that of the American Dream as something so far out of reach that it's not even a dream anymore, it's something that's just not real.

For example, in "Atlantic City," the protagonist finds his only hope in the line "Maybe everything that dies someday comes back." In "Highway Patrolman," the policeman chases his brother in a high-speed chase only to give up at the state line, saying that "I catch him when he's straying, like any brother would/Man turns his back on his family, well he just ain't no good."

On the other side of the coin, "Used Cars" does show a glimmer of hope, because despite lines like "My Dad he sweats the same job from mornin' to morn/ Me I walk home on the same dirty streets where I was born," he comes through with "Now mister the day the lottery I win I ain't never gonna ride in no used car again." Even the longshot stands out here.

"Open All Night" is an upbeat song, done with more than a touch of rockabilly-style echo layered in, which is utterly irresistible. Sure, it's a sad song, too, in a way, but Springsteen's emotive vocal tells you that he's gonna do OK, just like the line "Tramps like us, baby we were born to run" did.

The closing number is titled "Reason To Believe," and it attempts to give some faith for the future, but fails to do so with it's almost chillingly realistic (i.e. ugly) pictorial quality.

"Seen a man standin' over a dead dog lyin' by the highway in a ditch He's lookin' down kinda puzzled, pokin' that dog with a stick Got his car door flung open, he's standin' out on Highway 31 Like if he stood there long enough That dog'd get up and run Struck me kinda funny, seems kinda funny to me Still at the end of every hard day people find some reason to believe."

So, what we are rewarded with at the end of this ride through "Nebraska," is to be told that even our beliefs are false. Geez? This guy could brighten up a party just by leaving it.

This is a very easy album to admire, but a rather hard one to like all that much. But what the heck...buy it, play it, and get exquisitely depressed. Praise The Boss and pass the razor blades!

THE LORDS OF THE NEW CHURCH (I.R.S.)

You may remember the Dead Boys as one of America's premier punk bands of some years ago. Then again, you may remember them as something you'd like to forget.

Stiv Bator, their vocalist, was a would-be Iggy Pop clone, right down to the self-abuse and ability to incite any audience to violence. The Dead Boys final show at Ann Arbor's Second Chance ended a bit prematurely with a riot of sorts, ignited when someone hit the guitarist with a bottle. Hey, sounds like fun, eh?

Well, it wasn't really fun, but it sure was dangerous, primarily because of Bator. And now he's back, teamed up with ex-Damned guitarist Brian James and a new band called The Lords Of The New Church.

Surprise, surprise. This isn't the kind of inconsistent record we've come to expect from Bator, nor the kind of novelty rock the Damned excelled in, but rather a really good tight collection of, for lack of a better term, Hard Pop.

Ten tunes, and nary a dud among them. There's even a few potential hit singles here, but no radio programmers (at least in this area) have the backbone to even give them a chance, both because of their lecherous "punk" (Gasp!) background.

But I'll tell you, "Russian Roulette" sure would sound good out of four-inch tin car speakers. "Hey hey hey, we're in the movie

I feel up and I feel groovy Gotta headful of Hendrix I'm feelin' uh, OK."

Could it be that Bator and James are the Simon & Garfunkel of the '80s? And if so, will one of them have to get a perm?

Other highlights include the wonderfully snotty "Eat Your Heart Out," where Bator sneers the great line "Freudian slips on suburban hips," which leads to a chorus right out of the early Stone's book of cauvinism: "Shut up and sit down! Rich bitch, eat your heart out!"

"Livin' On Livin'" also deserves mention, because you get to hear Bator's Iggy fixation so well that you can pick up Iggy's Jim Morrison fixation from it. But bet of all may be "Li'l Boys Play With Dolls," the ultimate tribute to one of the all-time great bands, the New York Dolls.

No less than 19 song titles are mentioned in the song, which takes it's chord Johnny Thunder's version of "Pipeline, with enough "Thunderisms" throughout to recall half of the Dolls' first album. Right down to David Johansen's "What is da mattah wit cho?," they're on the money.

It's not an earth-shattering record by any means, but it'll sure be fun to play at parties. It'll get rid of the Styx-Kansas-Journey people quicker that you can say "Raw Power."

—Winterize your boat for winter—

you discover this has happened, a visit to a welding shop may be in order.
Check the rubber rollers for smooth rotation. If they are hard to turn or are stuck, free them up now so they don't get worse during the storage period. Use rubber lubricant available at all auto supply stores.

Some boat owners like to raise the keel of their boats off the keel rollers with blocks of wood. This prevents the weight of the boat from flattening the rollers while it's in storage.
Inspect the wheel bearings for adequate lubrication and signs of water. If you find any trace of water, clean the bearings and check any bright surfaces for signs of rust pitting. If all is well, regrease and put it back together.

It may also be a good idea to block up the trailer axle to relieve the tires of the weight of the trailer and boat. Some fishermen remove the wheels and store them in a cool, dark place to prolong tire life.

See if there's any water inside the tail lights. If there is, get it out now. The lamp sockets will corrode if the water is left over the winter.
If you take your boat and trailer out of the garage during the winter (maybe to go on a fishing trip down South), apply sealing compound where the wires enter the trailer lights to keep winter road salt from getting in and corroding the wire connections.

Of course, the entire winterizing process should be repeated before returning home.
Don't forget the boat itself. If it has a flat floor, take pains to sponge out any and all water under the floor. This is especially important if your boat is made of aluminum.

Water freezing in the hull can easily pop rivets and cause leaks.
Remember, the fishermen who get out on the water earliest each spring are usually the ones who did the best job of preparing their rigs for winter storage. And you may save a lot of money, too.
My buddy found this out the hard way.

Rolling up the yards

Fleeing unmolested in territory is Romulus' running back Johnny Rupert, the mainstay of the Eagles' ground attack. Rupert chalked up only 37 yards Friday night as a stingy Belleville defense held the Eagles to 83 yards on the ground to pick up its third straight win of the season 19-10. It was the first setback for Coach Norb Glover, who is in his rookie year as head coach. Romulus will be at home again Friday, hosting Detroit Murray Wright in hopes of breaking a jinx. They haven't won under the lights since moving to the newly-remodeled North Junior High gridiron.

After clipping Eagles, 19-10

State-ranked Monroe next for unbeaten Belleville Tigers

Belleville achieved a milestone by knocking off previously undefeated Romulus for their third consecutive victory, and if Coach Michael Colletta and his Tigers went to make it a "It's too good to be true" season they can Friday night.

All they have to do is go out and beat Monroe. But even Colletta concedes that will take a near perfect game from each and every one of his players.

Monroe happens to be the second ranked Class A team in the state and recently mauled traditionally powerful Fordson. The Trojans will be in Belleville for the 7:30 p.m. confrontation.

Here's what Colletta, who is off to his best start as coach in three years, has to say about the pending battle:

"Monroe deserves every bit of the No. 2 ranking. They have tremendous speed and size and show no weaknesses anywhere - on defense or offense."

Colletta then added: "Every member of our team will have to have a great effort for us to even stay on the same field with them."

Although the stats wouldn't show it — they're lopsided in Belleville's favor — Belleville had a tough time shaking Romulus off its heels. The Tigers tacked on a 19-10 victory to their record, but not after a couple of scares.

Belleville drew first blood as the Tigers scored midway in the first quarter on a Lenny Armstrong 11-yard off-tackle slant that capped a short 21-yard drive ignited by strong safety Derrick Smith's pass interception.

Ron Rich, who hasn't missed a conversion this season, ended his streak when he failed to boot the ball through the uprights.

Coach Norbert Glover's Eagles retaliated in the next series and made it a 6-3 ballgame thanks to Matt Sullivan's 32-yard field goal.

However, Belleville widened the gap in the second quarter when Ron Laframboise recovered a mishandled Romulus exchange at the Romulus 30-yard line. Six plays later, quarterback Jerome Roberson guided the Tigers to the four-yard line where Armstrong cashed in on an up-the-middle dash for the second TD of the evening.

This time Rich didn't fuss - he connected for the pointafter, lifting the Tigers to a 13-3 lead.

Romulus kept the fans on their seat's edge however as Jerome Austin returned the second half kickoff 60-yards and missed going all the way when Belleville's defense caught up at the 18 where, on the second play from scrimmage quarterback Matt Bossory fired a TD pass to Johnny Rupert.

Sullivan booted the extra point.

Belleville turned to its defenses to protect the slim margin and it wasn't until midway in the fourth (See BELLEVILLE, Page C-2)

Over 30 hockey launches season

It wasn't anything spectacular, and the skaters are still rusty, but the Wayne-Westland Over 30 Hockey Leagues launched their ninth season of competition last week.

The opening evening Little Bill's Trophies on a winning note by a 7-5 decision over Taste Freez. Keith Middaugh scored the year's first hat trick. John Clearwood tallied once and picked up three assists. Bill Keskey netted the puck twice while Ron Jacobs picked up one goal.

Terry Johnson finished with two assists while Bill McCusker, Art Cazabon, Ray LeCornu and Goalie Tim Vanderburgh each received one assist.

Taste Freez got on the scoreboard as Gene Tauriainen tallied twice and picked up one assist. Tom Bryans scored one goal and assisted two while Nick Palise and Barry Anderson netted the puck one and received one assist. Rick Riedel, Bob Capler and George Motts finished with one assist.

After a 3-3 tie through the first two periods, Johnson's Carbonic exploded for three goals in the final period to secure a 6-3 victory over Etronic. Dennis Darnell and Glenn Stevenson tallied once and picked up two assists while Layne Cardinal, Jack Willard, Jerry Bular and Ron Johnson collected one goal apiece. Mike O'Shea received three assists as Terry Jobbitt and Dave Fishwick received one assist.

Etronic's Al Farina tallied once and picked up one assist Glenn Sharpe and Jerry Robertson netted one puck apiece. John Kunz, Jim Drewry and Guy Moise finished with one assist.

Gene Machiniak logged the first shutout of the season as Family Heating skated to a 5-0 decision over All Sorts Sports. Al Pulk rattled the net for three goals and picked up one assist, Ron Wojewski tallied once and assisted the other four goals while Jack Bockstanz scored (See OVER-30, Page C-2)

Enough is enough

Sneaking through Belleville's first line of defense proved difficult for Romulus' Johnny Rupert who is eagerly greeted by rugged Martin Donaldson who gets credit for the solo here. Donaldson & Co. held on to win a 19-10 decision over the previously undefeated Eagles and will take a untarnished 3-0 record up against also unbeaten Monroe Friday night. If Coach Mike Colletta's Tigers want to earn their niche of glory for the 1982 season all they have to do is stop Monroe. Monroe happens to be the No. 2 Class A ranked team in the state this year.

Westland's Mike Kay is on Albion roster

MIKE KAY

Albion College freshman Mike Kay of Westland is a member of the 1982 Albion College Football team. Kay plays at the guard position.

Albion, thus far into the season, has a record of 1-1 in non-league competition, following a decisive victory over the Wooster Scots by the Score of 28-15.

"Our coaching staff believes this 1982 football team has the capability of being an outstanding one," says Head Coach Frank Joranko, adding, "with hard work and determination we will have a good season."

Kay is the son of Donald and Aileen Kay, 32223 Anita, Westland.

Albion's "Briton" athletic teams compete in the Michigan Intercollegiate Athletic Association (MIAA), as well as in NCAA.

Chiefs are winless

Monroe CC crushes Huron

Coach Jamie Hinojosa is almost ready to push the panic button.

Chagrined over his defense's ineptness to stop Monroe Catholic Central last Friday, the New Boston Huron head football coach has failed to reach the winning column in the first three games.

And he and his Chiefs lost two key performers to injuries during the Monroe confrontation, leaving the local gridders in a daze.

"We have our problems," Hinojosa admitted after the Chiefs dropped a lopsided 39-6 decision to Monroe. "Losing two more players doesn't help out either."

The Chiefs lost Rich Umin, their tailback and monsterman on defense, and Jeff Kouba, to injuries, swelling their injury list to five starters.

"We are going to have to go back to the drawing board and redesign our strategy," Hinojosa said.

Huron was never really in the ballgame with Monroe who scored three of the four times it had the ball in their possession in the first half. The halftime score, in fact, was an insurmountable 24-0.

The Chiefs averted the shutout in the third quarter when quarterback A.J. Richardson directed a 75-yard, 8-play drive which culminated with a QB sneak from the one yard line.

The passing combination of A.J. and wide receiver Bob Stackpoole remains the bright spot in the Huron game. Richardson and Stackpoole combined on six receptions for a total of 97 yards.

But, when the discussion turned to defense, Hinojosa just shook his head and offered: "We just couldn't stop them. They moved on us almost at will. They're a fine disciplined team"

And what about Friday night's meeting with Grosse Ile. Can the Chiefs break their 3-game losing streak at the expense of the Islanders?

"I feel we're more evenly matched with them (Grosse Ile)," said Hinojosa, "and we're going to have to beat them in the air. That's our game — we will need our best effort to do so, however."

Rockets roll past Garden City, 22-0

Win one for the Gipper?

No, neither George Gipp nor Ronald Reagan were present at the Pontiac Silverdome last Saturday afternoon for the game between the Rockets of Westland John Glenn and the Cougars of Garden City.

But former Glenn physical education teacher Irma Kionka was, and the Rockets football team responded to her presence by soundly defeating the highly-touted Cougars, 22-0.

For the Rockets, the victory was their third straight in 1982 and their eighth in a row over the last two seasons.

It also was their first league win putting them on the right path to the Northwest Suburban League title.

Garden City came into this league opener determined to establish a reputation as a league power and an identity as a school. Because of declining enrollment, East and West High Schools merged as one and now occupy the building that once housed Garden City East. The Cougars, who were merged from a Tiger and a Panther, came into the Silverdome with a 1-1 record.

Defense was the name of the game for the Rockets in this one, especially in the first quarter when the Cougars tried to establish their feared passing game.

But the Rockets stopped it before it ever got off the ground. Quarterback John Romano of Garden City saw more of the red-and-white clad Rockets than he saw of his own orange-and-blue clad offensive line, as wave after wave of Rocket defenders came after him.

John Ericson (6-3, 194, Sr.), Don Forchione (5-10, 178, Sr.), Dave Green (5-11, 187, Sr.), Kurt Robertson (6-1, 188, Sr.) and Jack Walker (6-4, 204, Sr.) accounted for six sacks and 49 yards in losses on the day.

As a result, Romano ended up with only -2 yards in passing.

Garden City's defense was equally as tough on the Rockets in that first quarter as the latter tried to establish its' running game. But the Cougars were keying on Prep Football Weekly's Wayne County Player of the Week, Todd Jennings, and Glenn's offense sputtered, if only temporarily.

At 6:05 of the second quarter, the first big break came the Rockets' way. Cougar punter Robert Milligan couldn't control a high snap from center while standing on the 5-yard line. So he did the next best thing — knock the ball out of the end zone to prevent a Rocket touchdown. The referee signalled the safety and Glenn led, 2-0.

That was the trigger the Rockets needed. The Rockets' offense got their hands on the ball as a result of the ensuing kickoff and they took advantage of this opportunity to add to their lead. Taking a page from the Gerry Lutri playbook, Coach Chuck Gordon sent in an option pass play.

Tailback Todd Jennings took the handoff from quarterback Jeff Hawley and sprinted to the right sideline, where he launched a 53-yard aerial towards the goal line. Junior Receiver John McKolay (5-9, 146) ran under the ball, caught it and raced into the end zone. With a successful PAT, Glenn led, 9-0.

At halftime, the alumni and fans present were entertained by two fine bands, the pom-pom girls and the flag girls, while both teams pondered second half strategy in their respective lockerrooms.

Glenn came out in the third quarter ready to put the crusher on the Cougars. They drove nearly the length of the field but a fumble prevented them from scoring. However, the defense of the Rockets came through once again. They completely bottled up the Cougar offense trapping them time after time deep in their own territory.

Finally, Glenn added their second touchdown of the game with 2:54 left in the quarter. Jeff Hawley, the junior quarterback who is gaining more and more confidence each game, stepped back into the pocket and loded a 53-yard strike to Brain Grassel (5-10, 152) in the corner of the end zone. Glenn led, 16-0, and they had the Cougars on the run.

The Rockets added their final touchdown of the game four minutes later. With 54 seconds gone in (See ROCKETS, Page C-2)

Anderson wins Wayne Festival race

With more than 100 runners competing in several age categories, taking part in the annual Wayne Fall Festival, the inaugural Wayne Tavern Trot proved to be a success. This event was a run through the streets of Wayne, starting and finishing in the municipal parking lot behind the Standard Federal Savings and Loan Building. The weather turned out to be less than ideal for the runners, with the temperature approaching 85 degrees as race time approached.

Seventy-three runners started the race and all but one runner finished the five mile course, a remarkable fact considering the weather. Don Anderson, one of the best runners in the state and a local runner from Garden City captured first place with a time of 26 minutes and 35 seconds.

"I was surprised that I wasn't pressed by the other runners a little more," said Anderson, "but the heat must have affected them more than me."

"This was really a fun event and one of the better local runs that I have entered recently."

Each age group winner received a commemorative beer stein as an award for their efforts. In addition, all runners received coupons which were redeemable at the sponsoring taverns, The Village Bar, and Jake's Lounge, in addition to the Wayne Fall Festival Beer Concession area.

Race organizers Ed Phillips and Jerry Szukaitis were pleased with the Tavern Trot.

"This is the first of many annual Tavern Trots which will be held in conjunction with the Fall Festival," said Szukaitis.

I want to especially thank all the neighborhood participants who helped with water stations and have their sprinklers out for the runners," said Phillips. "It is this type of community involvement that makes these fun runs enjoyable for the runners and the spectators alike. Each runner was very happy with the people in each of the neighborhoods, and without these people, several runners would not have been able to complete the five mile run. I was a bit disappointed with the amount of runners," continued Phillips, "but hopefully we will increase the field for next year's event. Many runners were very happy with the event and said they will bring additional runners next year."

In the still of the night

When you can't succeed on the ground, go to the air. And that's what Cherry Hill's Spartans did Friday night at Taylor Kennedy where they managed to split apart the Kennedy secondary to win their first Tri-River Conference game of the year. Coach Jerry Pawloski's gridders are now 1-1 in the league and 2-1 over-all as they prepare for a Saturday afternoon engagement against Deraborn Heights Annapolis. Annapolis dropped out from the Metro West League and is now affiliated with the Tri-River.

Ten Pins

Keglers are getting 'hot'

TEN PIN TOPICS by Jim Wrublewski

Now that the season has settled down into its normal routine we are starting to hear from still another segment of the bowling community, the youth leagues — that training ground for the future Earl Anthonys, Mark Roths, and Cora Fiebigs.

The organized youth leagues can be an excellent environment for our young people in which to improve their style, etiquette, character, and temperament — all of which are very important factors for that potential start of tomorrow.

Youn Dave Burgas is an excellent example. Dave, while bowling in Westland Bowl's youth program, put together two successive 600 plus series; 259 for 632, and 247 for 638, to start his season.

In the same sessions Don Wolfe had 277 for 584; Mike Voyles 218 for 590; and for the girls, Jean Stemple, 214 for 512.

Westland Bowl's Monday Morning Men's League reported in with Ted Ratliff rolling games of 222-234-216 for 672; Tim O'Neill, 230-214 for 641; Mark Abele, 267 in 637; and Terry Holmes and Bill Sewell sharing honors with a 244 game each.

Brian Harrison led the Sunday Sleepers last outing with a high of 666. The Wednesday Morning Mixers had Keith Miller with 221-266 for 668; Roh Krohn, 268 in 627; and, for the ladies, Nancy Benney put together 183-199-195 for an impressive 577.

The Coffee & Donut's group had "A" Division Doris Watts put together an impressive 209-199-233 for 641 to lead their group for top honors.

The ladies dominated the top spot at Superbowl this past week with 166 average Diane Meloche leading the pack on games of 212-195-278 for 685. Not far back were Elaine Perkowski with 633 and Muriel Brophy with 235. Bill Newbecker upheld the men's end of the game with a more than acceptable 278 game.

Town & Country's honor roll has M. McLaughlin with 267; Rob Daniels with 261, to lead the Men's High Single category; and Ray Lanczki holding series honors with 660 and Aaron Staples close behind with 655.

And, again, we see the ladies putting the pressure on the men by being in the running with Shirley Archbold topping the women's list with 257 for 619. "Cookie" Struppa is next with 240, and Marlene Bartos has 230 for 623 to round out reported highlights for this week.

Wayne-Westland Over - 30s launch new hockey season

With four seconds left in the game, Jay Middaugh scored its third goal of the game to lead Jake's Lounge to a 5-4 win over Futurama. Middaugh also picked up two assists while Arnie Cox and Jake Davidson tallied for one goal and one assist. Jerry Peterson finished the game with four assists as Larry Holt picked up one assist.

Howe capitalized for three goals and two assists each. Dave Frankling tallied for one goal and three assists with Ron Swider accounting for one goal. Gary Pierce and Ernie Kelm picked up one assist in the victory.

Mic-Dago Pub scoring went to Dale Fawkes' who had two goals, while Norm Beasley and Rick Mulen accounted for one goal apiece. Rod Dittmar and John Colligan finished with two assists.

Looking ahead to Sunday Oct. 3 Little Bills Trophies will play All Sorts Sports at 6 p.m.; Jake's Lounge and Mic-Dago Pub will battle at 7:15 p.m.; Brock Builders' will host Family Heating at 8:30 p.m.; Johnson's Carbonic Skates against Taste Freez at 9:45 and in the final contest of the evening Futurama will take on Etronic at 11:00 p.m. All games are played at the Wayne Arena and there is no admission charge.

Glenn undefeated

(Continued from Page C-1) the fourth quarter, Hawley gave his arm some more exercise as he threw a 32-yard pass to McKolay. Jennings missed his first extra point of the season, but Glenn led, 22-0.

The defense protected the shutout for the rest of the game, extending their streak of not having allowed doublefigures in points to 34 quarters.

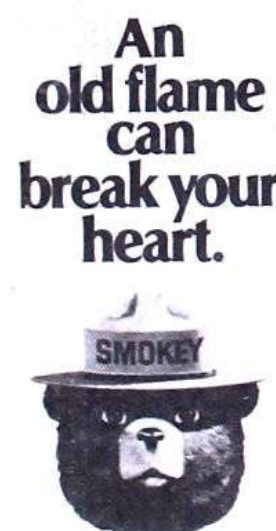

On offense, Hawley had the best day of his young varsity career, completing 4 of 8 passes for 112 yards. Jennings added 101 hard-earned yards to his season total which now stands at 507.

The Rockets' now prepare for Redford Thurston next Saturday, October 3, at Thurston.

Let's see... which alumni can we invite this time?

John Glenn's Junior Varsity Rockets suffered their first loss of the year, 28-12, on Thursday night to the Garden City Cougars JV team. Cass Simpson connected on a 56-yard strike to Ron Taig and Dave Husak added a touchdown pass to Taig for the Rocket scoring.

Funds for Huron River slide show needed

The Huron River Watershed Council is seeking donations to complete a slide-tape presentation on the Huron River basin, according to Marcia Dorset, executive director.

The educational program will be used for school groups, civic organizations, and community clubs. It will feature the river as a resource, and will also include a natural history introduction to the basin.

The Watershed Council has received a matching grant to develop the slide presentation, but unless the balance of $700 is raised the grant funding will be lost. Contributions are tax-deductible, and will result in a product that is a valuable asset to the entire Huron River community.

Donations information may be received by contacting Marcia Dorset, Executive Director, at 769-5123, or writing to Huron River Watershed Council, 415 W. Washington, Ann Arbor, Michigan 48103.

Last call for Adult Ed.

September 30 is the final day area residents will be able to register for the Huron Adult Education program, it was announced this week by Mary Cast, director of the programs.

Huron Adult Education, located in Huron High, is offering new fall programs and classes toward getting a high school diploma.

Christmas decorations, doll making, dancercise, auto body, auto mechanics and machine shop are among some of the classes offered.

The cost of the classes is free for non-graduates and those under 20, however, lab and book fees are charged. For graduates, academic classes are $15 and vocational classes are $25.

Classes began September 13th, but there's still time to get enrolled. Register Monday through Thursday, 1 to 9 p.m. until September 30.

Senior power

Although they had their moments to cheer, Romulus High football fans, including this cadre of seniors, eventually went home Friday night licking a 19-10 defeat at the hands of undefeated Belleville. The Eagles are yet to win under the lights at North Junior High and hope to end the two year jinx this Friday when they will host Detroit Murray Wright.

Recreation offers kids

Music will Orff in it

A musical program with the accent on the Orff philosophy will be offered to youngsters by the Romulus Parks and Recreation Department.

The program is geared for children of the ages 6, 7 and 8 years of age.

Carl Orff was a major contributing musician of the 20th century who recently died. One of the areas of concern in his life's work besides composing and conducting, was the teaching of music. He observed children's natural tendencies toward music making, and he experimented with easy instruments suitable for children to play.

Through his studies, he felt children should do the making of music to better enjoy, appreciate and understand it and that music comes naturally for children in combination with speech, song, and movement.

He chose percussion instruments including shortened xylophones, metalophones and glockenspiels with removable bars for the music making because the techniques of playing these instruments are more simple and therefore more quickly gratifying for groups of children than traditional band and orchestra instruments. This approach to the teaching and experiencing of music through speaking, singing, moving, and playing is called "Orff".

The Orff approach was never intended to take the place of formal lessons on classical instruments nor supplement band and orchestra programs. The Orff philosophy is to compliment existing music programs in the community by offering basic music elements to large numbers of children, bridging the gap between little or no music training and formalized music study for those who desire it.

Oakbrook has openings

It's not too late to consider preschool for your child. The Oakbrook YWCA Nursery still has a few openings this fall for 3-5 years old.

Oakbrook YWCA Nursery, a co-op nursery, is located at 15001 Brandt, Romulus, near Eureka and Middlebelt. The pre-school program, taught by Mrs. Marilyn Garner of Romulus, meets on Monday and Wednesday mornings from 9:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. The nursery is licensed by the State of Michigan.

For further information, contact Mary Wozny, Chairman, 941-3077 or Pamela Cronenwett at the YWCA of Western Wayne County, 561-4110.

Romulus continues recreation sign-up

There is still time to register for a variety of interesting Romulus Parks and Recreation programs.

The Recreation Department has a class in silk and dried flower arranging. The class will be held Thursday afternoon in the Recreation Building beginning Thursday, Oct. 7.

Students of all ages and all skill levels are welcome to join.

For further information call the Recreation Dept. at 941-0666 ext. 254.

Registration also is scheduled for many fall/winter programs that got underway on September 23. Registration so far has been successful. It is not too late to sign up for the programs.

Those interested may call or visit the Recreation office during regular business hours or also on the special registration night which will be held at the Recreation office on Thurs., Sept. 30 from 5 to 8 p.m. Classes are filled on a first-come, first-served basis.

Wednesday, Sept. 22 was show-down night for the Romulus Men's Golf League at Shady Hollow.

After the last divot was replaced, Pat Hogan and Larry Mach emerged as the new champions as they beat 2nd place Al Sabin and Londe Parker 16-6.

Mark Kwek and Jerry Lessnau moved into 3rd place by defeating Ron Bryk and Frank Gnas 20-2. Brent Hopson chipped in some on last night's fireworks as he aced the 140 yd. par 3 tenth hole.

It was Brent's second lifetime hole-in-one and also the 2nd hole-in-one in the league's three year history; last year Leonard Folmar aced the 150 yd. fifth hole.

The league's end of the year outing will be held at Clark Lake on Saturday, October 2.
